PENALTIES ON ITALY BIG TEST FOR EUROPE

Improvement Tax Boost and Mill Increase Moved

City's Special Estimates Committee Recommends Taxation of 75 Per Cent of Improvements Against 60 Per Cent Last Year; Forty-two Mill Rate Suggested

A 42 mill rate on 100 per cent of assessment on land and 75 per cent on assessment of improvements was recommended to the City Council by the special estimates committee today.

Last year, on a higher assessment, the rate was 41 mills on 100 per cent of land and 60 per cent improvements.

Alderman J. D. Hunter declined to give his approval to the increase of 15 per cent in the taxable assessment on improvements, but other members of the committee signed the report without attaching any qualifications.

On last year's rate, improvements would have yielded $714,355.21 based on 100 per cent collections of the current year's reduced assessment. On the same figure the proposed 75 per cent at 42 mills would realize $914,723 for 100 per cent collections

HIGHER LEVY

The proposed levy would yield $99,000 more revenue than that of last year if 79 per cent of taxes were collected. Actual percentage collections for 1935 were 76.7 per cent.

The actual committee report, filed at noon for this afternoon's meeting, follows:

"Your committee, in view of the net requirements from the levy on land and improvements for the year 1936 (estimated by the city comptroller at $1,871,000—subject to final check) recommends that the tax rate be set for the year 1936 at forty-two (42) mills based upon 100 per cent assessment of land and 75 per cent on improvements.

BELOW 1932 FIGURE

"While this may appear to be a very drastic action we would like to point out that, compared with the figure for the year 1932 when the levy was $1,822,000 based on 100 per cent assessment and 60 per cent

TOWNSEND AT U.S. INQUIRY

Dr. F. E. Townsend, originator of the Townsend $200-a-month old age pension plan, while waiting in Washington to testify at the House investigation into his organization, called the inquiry a hoax. Then the representatives decided not to hear him for two weeks. He is now on call. Sheridan Downey, his personal attorney, was leaning over his shoulder when the above picture was taken.

SHIP TOWED TO ST. JOHN'S, NFD.

St. John's, Nfld., May 8 (Canadian Press Cable).—After floundering in the North Atlantic for nearly a fortnight, the 4,668-ton freighter Ivanhoe, in tow of the Dutch tug Seafalcke, came into this harbor today.

Rogers Charge Is Withdrawn

Mrs. Leah Rogers Asks Court to Drop Proceedings Against Her Nephew

The charge against Ralph C. Rogers of Vancouver and Victoria of stealing $60,000 in negotiable bonds from his aunt, Mrs. Leah Rogers, was withdrawn with the consent of the Attorney-General in the City Police Court this morning.

Although commenting, "I do not like it," Magistrate George Jay agreed to withdrawal after Mrs. Rogers testified under oath that she had been under a misapprehension regarding her nephew's taking of the bonds. She exonerated him from all blame.

W. E. Williams, K.C., of Vancouver, appeared for Rogers and J. L. Clay of Victoria, for Mrs. Rogers.

Mr. Clay said he had been instructed by Mrs. Rogers to withdraw the case. The charge was laid under a misapprehension of the facts by the aunt who had given her nephew the privilege of taking bonds from her deposit box and had also given bonds to him and his relatives. Mr. Clay said the Attorney-General had been consulted and would acquiesce to withdrawal if Mrs. Rogers would make a sworn statement to this effect.

EXONERATES NEPHEW

Under examination by Mr. Clay Mrs. Rogers said she had misunderstood the facts and completely exonerated her nephew from all liability in connection with the charge.

C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, said he had been at the conference with Mr. Clay and the Attorney-General and his understanding had been that Mrs. Rogers should show there had been an error on her part in regard to all the bonds which were missing.

The magistrate asked Mrs. Rogers: "Am I now to understand that these bonds have been restored?"

Mrs. Rogers did not answer but Mr. Clay intervened and said her nephew had acted as her deputy and had control over the bonds.

Duce Now Making Bid to Return to Former Place In the Family of Nations

Ethiopia Will Be Recognized as Member of League When Council Meets in Geneva Monday, Say Officials, Though Mussolini Planning to Proclaim Country Annexed by Italy; Fascists More Vexed With France Now Than With Britain

Associated Press

Geneva, May 8.—Stirred by reports that Italy would proclaim outright annexation of Ethiopia, League of Nations officials announced today Ethiopia continued to be recognized as independent, a sovereign state and a member of the League.

Officials said Wolde Mariam, Ethiopian minister to France and delegate to the League, would have undisputed right to sit at the Council table next week during any Italo-Ethiopian discussion.

If Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italy's delegate, should leave the Council room on the ground "there is no longer any Ethiopia," officials said, new difficulties would develop for the Council.

The League plans called for a short session of the Council, meeting Monday, with adjournment until mid-June, when both the Ethiopian and Locarno problems could be discussed in detail.

NEW FRENCH MINISTRY

The main reason for this course of action was to permit time for formation of a new French cabinet after the leftist parties, which won a majority in the elections for a Chamber of Deputies, take control early in June.

Such a course, officials said, would mean automatic continuation of sanctions against Italy until the co-ordination committee decides whether they should be lifted.

Some jurists contended the League Assembly must pass on the question of ending the punitive measures against Italy since the Assembly authorized the sanctions policy.

Make Effort To Spread Strike

Picketing at Youbou and Hillcrest Mills Reported; Pearson's View

The strike in the lumbering industry had spread somewhat today and efforts were being made by pickets to cause walkouts in mills where the men had voted to stay at work, according to word received by the provincial government.

Some concern was expressed over threatened clashes between the pickets and the men who are working.

A new development was a report that the Merrill, Ring & Wilson camp at Rock Bay had gone out on a 180 to 120 vote for the strike. This is one of the largest camps in B.C.

Cowichan Lake appeared to be still the centre of the trouble. With all camps out, pickets were concentrating on the Youbou mill where the men voted to remain at work. Picketing was also going on at Hillcrest mill, it was reported.

While nothing was said of possible government intervention in the strike situation, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, suggested that workers in the camps and mills should give very serious thought "to the effect that a breakdown in the timber industry would have upon the workers of the province."

SHOULD STUDY METHOD

"If the men decided that there must be unionism in the timber industry, it would seem greater thought should be given to the methods of attaining this object than appears to have been given in the present issue," the minister said.

Zeppelin Goes Through Storm

Hindenburg, With 107 Aboard From Germany, Soon Due at Lakehurst N.J.

Associated Press

New York, May 8.—The Mackay Radio reported the Hindenburg at 2 p.m., E.S.T., (11 a.m., P.S.T.), today was approximately 580 miles east by north of Nantucket Lightship.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Correspondent

Aboard the Zeppelin Hindenburg, en route to America, May 8.—Officers of the Hindenburg indicated today they hoped to reach Lakehurst, N.J., at 7 a.m., E.S.T. (4 a.m., P.S.T.), completing her crossing from Friedrichshafen in sixty-three and one-half hours.

The excellent weather into which the Hindenburg emerged over the Grand Banks of Newfoundland after a stormy night was responsible for the prediction as to the possible arrival time.

The passengers had their biggest thrill of the voyage at 11.20 a.m., G.M.T. (3.20 a.m., P.S.T.), when a huge iceberg was sighted.

Capt. Ernst Lehman, master of the ship, manoeuvred the Hindenburg so all could obtain an excellent view of the sunbathed colossus of the seas.

The craft is carrying fifty-one passengers and fifty-six crew members.

At 8 a.m., G.M.T., the airliner rose

NEW MOVE TO OUST BALDWIN

London News-Chronicle Says Conservative Group Wants New Premier

Canadian Press

London, May 8.—David Keir, diplomatic editor, alleged today in The London News-Chronicle, Liberal newspaper, that a group of members of the Conservative Party sought to oust Prime Minister Baldwin from the post of leader of the government.

The article in The News-Chronicle predicted that if the "revolt" was effected, Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, would become Prime Minister. It added that Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary, would also vanish from the cabinet and that Sir Samuel Hoare, former Foreign Secretary, would become Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Miss MacPhail Scores Armories

Ottawa, May 8.—Miss Agnes MacPhail, U.F.O.-Labor, Grey-Bruce, Ont., the first woman elected to Parliament and for fifteen years one of its consistent pacifists, critized armory votes in the House of Commons today, leading the House into a full discussion.

Canada needed many things more than armories dotting the land, she said when a vote of $19,433 for the Seaforth Highlanders' armory in Vancouver was under review. Homes for the people were more necessary.

The Vancouver armory was erected by the last government. Conservative Leader Bennett said it was built because it was necessary and because it provided jobs for unemployed persons.

BANKER AND TEN OTHERS ARRESTED

Denver, Col., May 8 (Associated Press).—Thomas Morrissey, federal district attorney, announced the arrest today of Oliver P. Arnold, vice-president of the Denver National Bank, and ten other persons charged with conspiracy to loot the United States mail of $200,000 and with conspiracy to dispose of the loot.

The robberies, Morrissey said, occurred during the last few years in a number of midwestern cities.

PREPARE FOR BY-ELECTIONS

Commons Committee Approves Amendments Clearing Way For Polling Here

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 8.—Amendments to the Elections and Franchise Acts under which by-elections may be held between now and the time a general revision of election legislation takes place were passed today by the Commons committee on elections.

While amending the 1934 act in certain particulars, it was explained, many of the sections were copied from statute. Also some of the provisions were those of the 1930 elections Act.

As the amending bills had both been considered by a subcommittee, little discussion followed their presentation to the main body. They will be reported to the House.

Next week the committee will continue its investigation into the proportional representation system of voting.

A by-election must be held in Victoria, B.C., whose member, D. B. Plunkett, died last Sunday.

Britain Urging Germany Invite Russian Pact

Pressure For Inclusion of Other Nations in Reich's Proposed Non-aggression Treaties Indicated By Locarno Questionnaire Sent to Hitler

Associated Press

London, May 8.—Great Britain was declared by responsible sources today to be putting renewed pressure on Germany for the inclusion of Soviet Russia, Latvia and Esthonia in the Reich's proposed non-aggression pacts.

That point, said these sources, was the most important contained in the Locarno questionnaire Great Britain has handed to Germany, after consultation with France and Belgium.

Germany, when she precipitated the Locarno crisis by rearming the Rhineland in March, put a major share of the responsibility on Soviet Russia. She contended the Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact threatened central and western Europe with the introduction of Bolshevik "terrorism."

At that time of the Rhineland rearmament, Reichsfuehrer Hitler proposed a system of non-aggression pacts with the Reich's western and some eastern neighbors.

PROGRESS BLOCKED

Kidnap Gangs Are Cleaned Up

Interstate Crime "Under Control in U.S., Says Attorney-General

Associated Press

Washington, May 8.—Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings jubilantly surveyed the law's cleanup of two kidnap gangs and declared today that "the activity of interstate groups of criminals has been practically broken up."

Federal agents wrote "finis" on the records of the two mobs in a pair of swift, bloodless raids hundreds of miles apart yesterday.

William Mahan, wanted in the Weyerhaeuser kidnapping was seized in San Francisco and flown to Tacoma.

KIDNAPPER AT LARGE

The hunt concentrated today on a lone figure—last kidnapping "public enemy" to remain at large. He is Thomas H. Robinson Jr., the ex-law clerk accused of kidnapping Mrs. Berry Stoll in Louisville, Ky., a year and a half ago for $50,000 ransom.

GRAIN ACREAGE SHOWS INCREASE

Ottawa, May 8 (Canadian Press)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics today reported an increase of almost 1,000,000 in the area farmers will sow to grain this year if they carry out their present intentions. The increase, about 3 per cent over last year's area, is confined almost entirely to Saskatchewan and Alberta.

C.P.R. States Ships Need Chinese Crews

To Eliminate Orientals On Pacific Liners Would Disturb Conditions, Commons Committee Is Told

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 8.—Captain Edmund Aikman of Vancouver, general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Services, told the industrial and international relations committee of the Commons today he did not believe there were enough skilled white seamen in the coast port to man the company's trans-Pacific ships.

This was his reply to representations the C.P.R. employ a larger proportion of white seamen to replace present Chinese crews.

He had been puzzled over the question of non-employment of white seamen in ships on the Orient run, said Capt. Aikman, some time ago he had attempted to get in touch with the congress of Canadian organizations in Vancouver in order to obtain a list of unemployed white seamen possessed of necessary qualifications. The office had, however, been closed and he had been unable to establish contact.

He suggested the committee should attempt to obtain from Vancouver such a list.

British Troops Fly to Palestine

Reported Men Sent From Egypt to Put End to Rioting

London, May 8.—Usually reliable sources said today the British Government had ordered transport airplanes filled with British soldiers to fly from Cairo to Palestine to prevent further rioting between Arabs and Jews.

The infantrymen, it was stated, left Egypt yesterday evening by plane and were expected to have the situation well in hand immediately.

It was believed likely the goal of the transport ships was the Ramble airdrome, between Jaffa and Jerusalem.

NARROW ESCAPE

Picton, Ont., May 8 (Canadian Press).—A needle served as a lightning rod yesterday when a bolt came down the chimney of the home of Mrs. Craight Platt and struck the bit of steel from her fingers as she sat quietly sewing. She experienced a little shock, a fact she attributed to the rubber thimble she was wearing.

The three nominated are former Premiers Tewfik Nessim Pasha and Adly Yeghen Pasha and Marmoud Fakhri Pasha, former Disarmament Conference delegate. The names must be approved by parliament.

Parliament formally proclaimed Farouk King.

West Will See Great Musical Development

Sir Ernest MacMillan Believes Musical Progress in Canada Should Be on National Scale; Is Impressed With Progress in Western Canada

Despite difficulties of distance which separate western music lovers from the large centres of musical interest, Sir Ernest MacMillan, principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music and conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, who is in Victoria today, said in an interview that he found a highly developed critical faculty in western Canada.

He expressed the view that western Canada is on the threshold of unprecedented musical development.

During his tour, Sir Ernest visited Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Vancouver, and in addition to his speaking engagements he is meeting music teachers to discuss with them questions of teaching, examination work and the new syllabus of the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

CHURCH BURNS IN VANCOUVER

Canadian Press

Vancouver, May 8.—Chown United Church, for thirty years a landmark in the Fairview residential district, was in ruins today following an early morning fire which for a time threatened surrounding houses and an apartment block.

The loss is expected to reach $100,000. Value of the structure was estimated at $50,000, while the organ in the church was valued at $40,000. A large library, which was housed in a wing of the building, also was destroyed.

Origin of the blaze remained unknown. The first alarm was turned in by residents, who noticed the blaze breaking through the roof shortly before 1 a.m. Fireman arrived to find flames leaping 200 feet in the air; a second alarm was turned in for more apparatus. Another alarm, which was answered by three more halls, was turned in twenty minutes after the second.

NAVY BILL PASSED BY U.S. SENATE

Washington, May 8 (Associated Press).—The United States Senate today passed the record peace-time $529,000,000 navy appropriation bill.

The measure, carrying funds for more fighting ships, aircraft and men, was returned to the House with amendments. Conference committees were scheduled to adjust differences between the two Houses.

Chinese Fliers Kill Many Reds

Associated Press

Taiyuanfu, Shansi Province, China, May 8.—National army fliers reported they had killed approximately 1,000 Chinese Communists with bombs this afternoon.

Provincial military authorities said the bombing planes had dealt a crushing blow to Communist troops in western Shansi.

Following the air attack, military authorities said infantry was moving against the Communists, with the support of the airplanes.

The Reds were said to be fleeing into the northern Shansi province.

ATTITUDE CHANGED

"Your attitude is entirely changed to what it was before. You remember what you said when you came before me," said the magistrate to Mrs. Rogers, apparently referring to the occasion when the warrant was sworn out.

"It was a hasty mistake on my part. I am too blind to see or read nowadays. I thought then he deserved to have the law taken out against him because I thought he took them," Mrs. Rogers replied.

"The condition sometimes arises where people have to be protected from themselves," said the magistrate.

Mr. Williams rose and said he understood Mrs. Rogers to have stated that she was now unable to see or read and she now realized her nephew took the bonds with complete authority.

ASK COUNSEL'S ADVICE

The magistrate then asked Mr. Clay as counsel for Mrs. Rogers whether his investigations and knowledge of the case satisfied him that the charge should be withdrawn.

Mr. Clay said in view of Mrs. Roger's statement her nephew was completely exonerated and had acted with proper authority. He did not answer the court's question.

"It appears then there is nothing else to do but withdraw the charge, but I must say I don't like it. There are occasions which arise when people have to be protected from themselves and their own folly," the magistrate said in agreeing to the request.

CHURCH BURNS IN VANCOUVER

BLOCK ENDANGERED

Firemen concentrated their hoselines on surrounding buildings as flames licked their way through the two-story, wooden-frame, structure. Windows in the Ryan Block, an apartment building directly across the street, gave way in the great heat.

Residents in the apartment block and surrounding houses were not requested to vacate their premises, however, but firemen warned them to watch for the caving in of their windows.

Charles R. Purdy, janitor of the church, was apparently the last person in the building, leaving at 9 p.m. The blaze is believed to have originated in the basement and eaten its way to the roof before it was noticed.

TRAFFIC RE-ROUTED

Hundreds of people, with coats thrown over their night attire, came from blocks around to view the burning building and street car and automobile traffic was re-rounted by police.

Rev. A. E. Whitehouse is pastor of the church.

Plans had recently been discussed for painting the structure.

TWO DEATHS INVESTIGATED

Police Inquire Into Traffic Casualty as Two Held in Another California Case

Associated Press

Los Angeles, May 8.—Circumstances surrounding the deaths of Robert S. James's third wife and his nephew were investigated today by authorities delving into the master barber's matrimonial ventures.

For the "rattlesnake - bathtub" death of Mary Bush James, James's fifth wife, he and Charles H. Hope are held on murder charges.

They will plead next Monday to an indictment which alleges they killed Mrs. James last August by thrusting her leg into a box of rattlesnakes and immersing her in a bathtub and then tossed her body in a fish pond.

The prisoners carried out the fantastic plot to collect $21,400 on the woman's insurance policies, the state charges.

TRAFFIC DEATH

Hope, whose story of the fifth Mrs. James's death resulted in the arrest of himself and James, suggested to Williams that he investigate the traffic death of Cornelius Wright, the nephew, killed when his automobile left a road near San Francisco.

Hope, Williams said, suggested he determine if the steering gear of the machine had been tampered with.

These sources said an avowal of Il Duce's intention to take a full part again in international affairs—after the League of Nations sanctions campaign ended—would be one of the result of tomorrow's Fascist Grand Council and cabinet meetings.

This solemn declaration was expected to be issued in connection with a proclamation of annexation of Ethiopia by Italy. The conquered East African empire, informed sources said, would be united with Eritrea and Somaliland to become "Italian East Africa."

VEXED WITH FRANCE

Fascists, foreseeing the movement for peace with the League after seven months of estrangement with Geneva over the Ethiopian conquest, were more vexed over the attitude of France toward a reconciliation than the position of Great Britain.

A careful perusal of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's acknowledgement to the House of Commons Wednesday that sanctions had failed convinced Italian Government sources "there might be some sportsmanship left in Englishmen after all."

These sources cited a communique, issued after an extraordinary cabinet session during the Italian military manoeuvres at Bolzano August 28, 1935, which affirmed:

"Britain has nothing to fear from what will be Italy's policy toward Ethiopia."

NO CRABBING

Supplementary admonitions to Britain and France "not to start crabbing" were foreseen.

Informed sources, while feeling a more friendly political atmosphere from Britain, indicated France favored a settlement of the Rhineland question before lending itself to any "forgive and forget" negotiations between Britain and Italy.

Reliable sources felt this French attitude might prove an obstacle to undertakings for an agreement over the African question.

HARAR OCCUPIED

Associated Press

Rome, May 8.—The capture by Italian troops of Harar, second city of Ethiopia, was reported today by the Magadiscio correspondent of the newspaper Il Tevere.

The correspondent said the forces of Gen. Rodolfo Graziani moved into Harar yesterday, occupying the final military objective of Italy's campaign in East Africa.

(From Djibouti, French Somaliland, came reports that a large part of Harar was destroyed by fire and looting as the Italian troops approached the city).

WELCOME REPORTED

Il Tevere's dispatch said the chieftains and leading priests of the populace welcomed the troops. Along the road from Jijiga to Harar, remnants of Ras Nasibu's army surrendered their arms.

The redoubtable Ras Seyoum, who fought the Italians more bitterly perhaps than any other Ethiopian chieftain, made his submission today, a Stefani (Italian) news agency dispatch from Asmara, Eritrea, reported.

LOOTING REPORTED

London, May 8.—Sir Sidney Barton, British minister to Ethiopia, wirelessed the Foreign Office today from Addis Ababa that looting, burning and shooting had broken out in Harar, second city of the conquered African kingdom.

The British consul at Harar reported to Sir Sidney the Italians were believed ten miles from town. (This conflicted with a Rome press report which said the Italians already had entered Harar).

The consul stated he was remaining in Harar with a guard of forty Somali police. They have been aiding the Ethiopian governor in attempting to maintain order, the consul reported.

With the Italian Army in Addis Ababa, May 8.—Young Ethiopian children gave the Fascist salute to all Europeans today as the Italian army of occupation cleaned up the desolated former imperial capital of Ethiopia.

The youngsters were encouraged to do so by priests of both the Mussulman and Coptic Christian religions who promised to aid the Italian authorities in bringing peace.

CITY IS CALM

Complete calm spread through the city under the combined policing of Italian troops who occupied the former capital Tuesday and native constabulary who were enlisted for work.

Four foreigners were known to have died during the reign of terror which preceded the Italian occupation.

The bodies of two unidentified foreigners were found in an automobile which had been turned over and burned. The other foreign victims were Dr. A. J. Melly, leader of the British Ambulance unit, who died after being shot Sunday, and Mrs. N. A Stadin, wife of a United States missionary, also shot to death Sunday. About 200 native residents were believed to have perished in the rioting.

Britain Is Urging Germany Invite Russian Pact

TREATY QUESTION

Britain likewise requested a clear declaration from Hitler as to whether Germany now regarded herself in a position to conclude "genuine treaties" and intends to respect the existing territorial and political status of Europe.

The questionnaire failed to trest with the German proposals for temporary arrangements in the remilitarized Rhineland zone, pending completion of the first stage of general negotiations for the peace of Europe.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden stated, however, in the questionnaire:

"There are other matters which will have to be raised at a later date."

PUBLISH QUESTIONNAIRE

The questionnaire, presented to the Berlin Foreign Office yesterday, was made public in London today in a white paper, or government report.

"It is of course clear that negotiations for a treaty would be useless if one of the parties hereafter felt free to deny its obligations on the ground that party was not at the time in a condition to conclude a binding treaty," the questionnaire said.

Great Britain called attention to the German memorandum of March 24, calling for negotiation of new treaties, and suggested it was the German Government's view that by its occupation of the Rhineland, in violation of the Locarno Pact, it had established a position for conclusion of effective treaties.

Other passages, however, the British questionnaire said, were "capable of a different interpretation."

The British, therefore, the questionnaire said, "Will welcome a clear declaration from the German Government to remove an uncertainty on this point."

The questionnaire rejected German views which "might give rise to doubt on the position Germany takes on continued maintenance in force of the remaining operative clauses of the Treaty of Versailles, and indeed any agreement which might be said to have its origin in the provisions of Versailles."

TERRITORIAL STATUS

A point blank clarification of Germany's position concerning the territorial and political status of Europe was asked.

"The question is really whether Germany now considers a point has been reached at which she can signify that she recognizes and intends to respect the existing territorial and political status of Europe except in so far as this might be modified subsequently by free negotiation of an agreement," the questionnaire said.

Britain asks Germany for clarification of its proposal for an international court of arbitration, including its functions, its constitution and the relation it would bear to the League Council and the Hague Permanent Court for International Justice.

A meeting of 100 members of the Conservative Party's foreign affairs committee yesterday evening was believed to have demonstrated a cleavage of opinion on this subject also among the rank and file.

The Labor Party's parliamentary leader, C. R. Attlee, will go to Paris this evening to discuss the international situation with the leaders of the French Socialist Party. Informed sources said Mr. Attlee would urge continued support of a full sanctions policy.

The League of Nations Union will hold a great rally in Albert Hall, London, tonight, to pass a resolution calling on the British Government to adopt a similar course.

Mr. Eden will leave here tomorrow for Geneva to attend the League of Nations Council meeting Monday.

PRODUCE STRIKE IN SEATTLE ENDS

Seattle, May 8.—The produce row strike, which had tied up all of this city's large commission houses except one, ended this afternoon with the signing of a one-year working agreement.

Commons Committee Approves Miss MacPhail's Choice of D. Massey

Ottawa, May 8.—Denton Massey, Toronto-Greenwood Conservative, today accepted gracefully congratulations of the Commons radio committee on having headed Miss Agnes MacPhail's list of handsome House members.

As the committee met Paul Martin, Liberal, East Essex, Ont., moved it congratulate Mr. Massey, absent yesterday when the list of handsome members prepared by the Grey-Bruce man member and that old "attractive-looking" members selected by Mrs. George Black appeared in morning papers.

W. M. Ryan, Liberal, Saint John-Albert, N.B., seconded the resolution, a. ! Chairman Arthur Beaubien, Liberal, Provencher, Man., remarked he had been asked to make a selection and had unhesitatingly named Mr. Massey.

"Then I urge you be removed as chairman," Mr. Martin declared.

Hon Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Defence, fourth in Miss MacPhail's list, was absent from today's meeting.

Ottawa, May 8.—A Pulchritude test awaits the ten handsomest men in Canada's House of Commons, if the ten, given that title by Miss Agnes MacPhail, U.F.O.—Labor member for Grey-Bruce, Ont., can wear kilts.

Paul Tasse, barber for three decades of Canadian politicans, says Miss MacPhail displayed an "unerring instinct" in making her selections, but he considered the real test of handsomeness in a man he would look in kilts.

Put a sporran and kilt on them, says Paul, and there would be a new Canadian beauty number one—no less than Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, who placed only fourth in the MacPhail beauty gallery.

assessment of improvements, the tax levy this year is $151,000 less than the levy for the year 1932.

"The levy proposed of $1,671,000 does not include any provision for sinking fund purposes or for the retirement of serial debentures (these two items totaling $495,000), and at the same time includes an anticipated relief loan of $100,000 from the provincial government, together with $41,000 of monies in reserve funds to be used to keep the levy down.

NO WAGE INCREASE

"Your committee recommends that no general increase be granted in salaries and wages of civic employees but that consideration be given later to special cases."

The report was signed by Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman, Mayor David Leeming and Aldermen T. W. C. Hawkins, Walter Luney and J. D. Hunter.

Alderman Hunter signed the report but noted on it his exception to the tax rate issue, indicating he was not in favor of the increase in the assessment on improvements.

Ethiopians Say Emperor Will Go From There to Europe

Haifa, Palestine, May 8—The British cruiser Enterprise, bearing Haile Selassie and other members of the imperial Ethiopian family into exile, arrived today at this seaport of northwest Palestine.

The self-exiled monarch will go with his family by special train to Jerusalem, capital city of Palestine.

ACQUITTAL IS GIVEN TWO MEN

Canadian Press

New Westminster, May 8.—John Campbell of Glace Bay, N.S., and Dan Cummings of Vancouver yesterday were acquitted by Magistrate H. L. Edmonds in police court of charges of breaking and entering the shack of Edward Rolands with intent to steal.

Campbell and Cummings were arrested Monday as they left a hospital where the former had been treated for a cut on the arm, inflicted by Rowland as he wielded an axe to drive them from his shack.

The two men said they were searching for the home of a friend when attacked by Rowland.

TRAPEZE GIRL KILLED BY FALL

Associated Press

Kitchener, Ont., May 8.—Sue Ulric of Los Angeles, a trapeze performer with the Conklin Shows, died early today from injuries she suffered in an eighty-foot fall during a performance yesterday evening. She was making a leap from one trapeze to another when the rope on the second trapeze broke.

Just by Way of Reminding You

SHE MIGHT, quite possibly, look as adorable as this—that Mother of yours! She might, quite possibly, be even smiling so . . . smilingly SURE of your affection . . . confident SHE isn't going to be among the forgotten women on Mother's Day. This is by the way of reminding you that Sunday is HER big day! And wouldn't it be just typical of your Mother to appreciate any little gift at all as if it were a million dollars . . . but not to expect anything so grand as a new Suit, a new Coat, a Fur Neckpiece, or a new Dress? That costs money . . . she'd probably say . . . and, much as she'd like a new Coat, there are things YOU need more! Herself LAST, of course . . . and thus, what a grand opportunity of giving her a really BIG surprise on HER big day!

Dr. Hugo Eckener, president of the Zeppelin company, said: "We picked up five tons of water in half an hour. It was most welcome, for it compensated the loss of weight through consumption of fuel."

GRAF ARRIVES SAFELY

Freidrichshafen, May 8.—The Graf Zeppelin, after bucking bad weather over the Atlantic and taking a short cut up the Rhone Valley with the permission of the French government, reached its base safely today with twenty-two passengers in a flight from South America.

The Graf, companion ship of the Hindenburg, now crossing the North Atlantic to the United States, had struck a hangar wall at Rio de Janeiro before starting the return trip, but Commander Hans von Schiller said the accident had not hampered navigation. A broke girder of a stern motor gondola had been repaired and stabilized.

The ship was given a thorough examination and immediate repairs. It will start for South America again Monday on its regular schedule.

"The present struggle seems to be an effort on the part of what would appear to be a small percentage of the men in the industry who hope to secure a charter from the American Federation of Labor, and they are using the strike method to force the operators to accept unionism.

"There appears," Mr. Pearson continued, "to be no wholeheartedness on the part of the men in this strike. It would seem the majority of men do not wish to quit work, but some of them would rather do so than accept the odium of being called scabs. They are allowing a few men to influence them. From the standpoint of those who are organizing the strike, this would appear to be its weakness. I do not believe that with this attitude from the men towards the strike it will succeed at this time.

"So far as I know this is not an American Federation of Labor strike. I have no evidence that the federation has granted a charter to the union here. In fact, as I see it, the fight is not between the operators and the men at all, but between two elements among the men. It is between those who are organizing a union and those who are not yet ready to join the union. The men themselves wil have to choose in this matter.

"As I have made clear many times, I believe in trade unions, but I do not believe in a union where 25 per cent of the men tell the others what to do."

UNDER CONTROL

Hoover agreed with Cummins, his chief, that kidnapping and bank robbery in the United States are, at last, "under control."

"Bank robbery and kidnapping will always continue to some degree, however," Hoover added quickly.

Cummings said news of the rapid-fire capture of Karpis, Campbell and Mahan was "the most gratifying piece of information I've received for some time" and called the cleanup "a splendid piece of work."

SEEK TO LEARN AIDES

St. Paul, Minn., May 8.—An effort to learn the names of Karpis-Barker gang aides—including politicians—was pressed by federal agents today in questioning Harry Campbell, last of the major members of the mob.

Campbell, seized in Toledo yesterday and rushed here by plane, was interrogated in the federal building where his confederate, Alvin Karpis, underwent a five-day questioning.

Government officials declined to comment, but The Minneapolis Tribune said it had learned Karpis furnished a clue that led to his lieutenant's arrest.

Centralia, Wash., May 8 (Associated Press).—Miss Reva Burdette, bank employee who nursed a black eye when struck during a bank holdup in 1934 by a man she identified as William Mahan, also nurses a grudge, she admitted today.

"I wish I could give him a black eye like he gave me," she said on learning the Weyerhaeuser kidnapping suspect had been apprehended yesterday and rushed by airplane to Tacoma.

WAR BOOK TELLS OF CANADIANS

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, May 8.—Interesting references to the Canadian Corps in France and to its leaders appear in the second volume of "Haig," by Rt. Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper, Secretary for War, published by MacMillan.

The first volume, it will be remembered, which was published last year, provoked, or rather revived, the controversy which ever since the Great War has revolved around the characters of soldiers, statesmen and other men of prominence in that momentous period. The controversies, it is to be anticipated, will arise afresh with the appearance of this second and final volume. It carries the story of Haig's career from the close of the Battle of the Somme to the end of his life.

VIMY RIDGE

Writing of Easter Monday, 1916, when the Canadians captured Vimy Ridge, Duff Cooper speaks of the morning being bitterly cold. "It was not until 8 a.m. that Haig received a report that four divisions of Canadians and the VI Corps were doing well, and that all first objectives had been gained. During this day and the following one Haig's wisdom in attacking it was fully demonstrated.

"This was one of the matters in which his juudgment had differed from that of Nivelle, who had believed either that the Germans would evacuate Vimy Ridge of their own accord or, if they failed to do so, that it would prove impregnable. Haig had been convinced it would be strongly held, but had not doubted his ability to capture it after proper preparations and with determined troops. The Germans proved his first supposition to be correct, and the Canadians justified his second."

CURRIE'S LEG INJURY

Coming to preparations for the ill-starred and prolonged operations of Passchendaele, the author quotes from Haig's diary concerning an inspection of the Dominion forces:

"At Les Quartre Vents I was met by General Burstall, commanding the Second Canadian Division, and George Black with the horses. A ride of about ten minutes brought us to where the Fourth Canadian Brigade (Rennie) was drawn up. Gen. Currie, commanding the Canadian Corps, met me here. He has sprung a tendon in his leg playing badminton, and is very lame. Currie is a very big, tall, heavy man. He must have been in great pain, but he stuck it all day. Big legs are necessary to support such a frame as Currie has.

CHEERED BY TROOPS

"After inspecting the brigade the troops marched past me, reformed and gave three cheers. They asked me if I had any objection to the latter —"They wished to do it and cheering does us good"—so of course I agreed, though of course it would have been out of place to cheer in our old regular army, except on the King's birthday. I rode on, and inspected the Fifth (Ross) and the Sixth (Ketchen) Brigades, and also shook hands with the G.O.C. of the Third Division (Lipsett) and of the Fourth Division (Watson) and staff. The troops of the latter were in the line."

Haig went on to mention meeting Tuxford, Griesbach and Loomis.

"FINE BIG MEN"

Of his inspection of the Third Brigade, he noted:

"There are three kilted battalions in this brigade, all fine big men. The experience and training of the past year have done wonders for the Canadians. Their morale is now very high, and though they have been opposed by the flower of the German army (guards, etc.) they feel they can beat the Germans every time.. I was greatly pleased with the smart turnout and the earnest determined look of all ranks. The officers and all ranks were, I think, honestly glad to see me. Two Canadian divisions have knocked out seven German divisions. This fact in itself is evidence of the enemy's loss of morale. That these two Canadian divisions are now in such a fine state is due to having ample reserves to replace casualties, the results of sound organization."

"BACKS TO WALL"

Passing over for the moment nearly 200 pages of this ample and arresting biography, the reader comes to August, 1918, some months after the British had been fighting—in the words of Haig's celebrated order—"with their backs to the wall." It is rather curious to note incidentally that Haig made no mention in his personal diary of this historic order. On August 7 King George and the French President lunched at Haig's headquarters, a day when the troops "were about to begin the advance that was to end on the Rhine." Haig's diary notes the inspection he made in the afternoon.

GREAT HASTE

"I went to Canadian headquarters at Dury and saw General Currie," he wrote. "The latter said it had 'been a hustle to be ready in time, but everything had been got in except two long range guns. Last night was the critical moment. If the Germans had bombarded the Canadian zone, we could not have retaliated. Tonight the situation is quite different and we are ready?"

In that August, too, Haig visited the Canadian Cavalry Brigade:

"I rode round most of the squdrons, horse artillery batteries and machine guns. Fine, plucky fellows all, who don't know what fear is. Eighty per cent are Scotsmen. One young fellow, born in Edinburgh, now a major (by name Strachan) got the V.C. at Cambrai; was before the war ranching in Alberta. Most are from Winnipeg."

VISITED BY CLEMENCEAU

Haig wrote of Clemenceau inspecting the Seventh (Canadian) Brigade on the ground they had won. "They looked splendid and the officers looked up to their work in every way."

In the month of September, when the British were still pushing ahead, the commander-in-chief again saw Canadians at first-hand, when the First and Fourth Divisions, with Brutinel's force of machine guns, armored cars, cyclists, etc., were on the main Arras-Cambrai Road. Haig wrote:

"The Canadian Corps had taken prisoners from ten different divisions. Watson seemed disturbed by the losses he had had, but on enquiry I found they did not amount to many. I next saw General MacDonell. He was in great spirits. His trops had taken Villers le Cagnicourt without any difficulty, and were now on the spur north of Buissy, many of the enemy surrendered without fighting."

The book makes no specific reference to the final operations of the Canadians around Mons.

ESTIMATE OF HAIG

London, May 8. — In the second volume of "Haig," by Rt Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper, Secretary for War, the author paints a picture of the British commander-in-chief as constantly beset and harassed—his plans derided and his achievements belittled. The book has been published by MacMillan.

It was already plain in 1916, asserts Duff Cooper, that Prime Minister Lloyd George had no confidence in his own commander-in-chief. The author, who himself served in the war from 1914 to 1919, does not agree with the war Premier's estimate of Haig's fitness for the post.

REMARRIAGE BILL REJECTED

Senate Declines to Vote Penalty For Guilty Persons in Divorce Actions

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 8.—The Senate yesterday threw out the bill of Senator J. J. Hughes, Liberal, Prince Edward Island, to prohibit remarriage of guilty respondents in divorce actions.

Rejection of the measure came when the Upper House carried, without a recorded vote, an amendment moved by Senator Lendrum McMeans, Conservative, Winnipeg, to give the bill a six months' hoist. The amendment was moved to a motion for second reading.

During the discussion objection to the Hughes bill was voiced by Senator W. M. Aseltine, Conservative, Saskatchewan. "I do not think there is any public opinion behind this measure in Canada or in any other country where similar legislation may have been suggested," Senator Aseltine declared. "This bill to prohibit the remarriage of a guilty party in a divorce action is against public policy." Divorce was not a sin but a remedy for an evil and was really a safety valve, he said.

DEPORTED FROM UNITED STATES

Predicting she would return to the United States, Mrs. Anna Sage, the "woman in red" who betrayed John Dillinger to federal agents, is pictured above as she boarded the Ss. President Harding at New York City for deportation to her native Roumania. Her plea that she had been promised immunity from deportation for pointing out Dillinger was ignored by federal courts which ordered her sent out of the country.

Big Native Army Mussolini's Plan

Duce Reported Preparing to Forge Great War Machine in Ethiopia

Associated Press

Rome, May 8.—Development of the greatest native army in history is believed to be Premier Mussolini's intention now that Addis Ababa is "an Italian city" and the occupation of all of Ethiopia is in sight.

Any European diplomat correspondents talk with will give that as his confirmed belief.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio's communiques time and again talked of the desperate courage of the Ethiopians. They charged into machine guns until they were literally wiped out.

Officered by European officers who would lead them, not push them, into battle, following an artillery and machine gun barrage, against any enemy whose positions had been thoroughly scouted from the air, they would prove a tremendous force.

OFFICERS SPEAK LANGUAGES

Italy's colonial-military experience of fifty years would serve her is good stead in developing a big Ethiopian army. She has hundreds of officers who speak the main east African native languages and know the native psychology well.

The performance given by Eritrean and Somaliland native Askaris and Dubats has been excellent. Marshal Badoglio has often cited them in his dispatches.

The objection might be made that the Ethiopians would not fight for the Italians. That remains to be seen, especially after a certain lapse of time. Initial recruiting would probably begin among the races that have lived in subjection to Addis Ababa and in smouldering hostility to the Emperor.

HYDRO PLANS MADE IN CHINA

Canadian Press

Nanking, China, May 8.—Groups of Canadian, French and Dutch engineers are making a survey in the Pinghsan district of southern Szechuan for what promises to be China's first large-scale hydro-electric development.

The project involves expenditure of $2,500,000 Chinese money ($750,000 Canadian) on a 5,000-yard tunnel through the Tung-Kaitze mountains to divert swift waters of the Tatu River, a tributary of the Yangtze.

It is sponsored by the National Economic Council working in co-operation with the provincial department of reconstruction.

Edward Laurillard Dies in New York

Associated Press

New York, May 8.—Edward Laurillard, sixty-six, British theatrical producer, died yesterday in the Harbor Sanitarium, where for several weeks he had been undergoing treatment for an abdominal ailment. He suffered a stroke three days ago.

Luarillard, known to British theatregoers since 1894, and one-time partner of George Grossmith, London producer, was born in Rotterdam, Holland, April 20, 1870, and entered theatrical work in a managerial capacity when he was twenty-four.

At one time he controlled no fewer than twenty-five theatres in London devoted exclusively to the cinema.

He was married twice. Both marriages were dissolved.

Italians Have Slave Problem

Freeing of Many in Ethiopia Will Be Hard Task, Correspondent Finds

By ALBERT W. WILSON
Associated Press Staff Writer Just Returned from Addis Ababa

New York, May 8. — One of Mussolini's most difficult and costly tasks, now that he has conquered Ethiopia, will be to carry out his promise to free all slaves.

Emperor Haile Selassie made considerable headway in stamping out slavery, but it meant a big expense for maintenance of special slave police, slave courts and the like.

The freeing of slaves in the United States was a slow and costly process. In Ethiopia there is a difficulty which did not exist in the United States—the job of finding slave owners and dealers in almost inaccessible sections of the country.

In the same month that the war with Italy began, Emperor Haile Selassie sent an Englishman, Col. D. A. Sandford, into extreme southeast Ethiopia to assist the governor of Maji province in dealing with the slave problem.

Col. Sandford made the trip by mule caravan, arriving at his destination in December. He is carrying on his work now, presumably ignorant of the fact that his employer, the emperor, is no longer in power. It takes runners weeks to carry news from the capital to Maji.

Famine in Szechuan Province Drives Some to Cannibalism

Canadian Press

Nanking, China, May 8.—"China's paradise has become China's hell," says the report of the Szechuan Relief Association, which declares 30,000,000 people in that province are starving.

Enormous numbers are endeavoring to subsist on grass, roots, clay and the bark of trees, while "not a few have turned cannibals," the report adds.

Szechuan, larger than France and with a population of from 40,000,000 to 60,000,000 people, is mountain-ridged and has no railways. The only way in which supplies can be sent in is by river steamer through 300 miles of the dangerous Yangtze gorge.

The report attributes the famine to banditry, floods and drought.

Red Flag Was Students' Stunt

Associated Press

Cambridge, Mass., May 8.—According to a statement by Woods McCahill, treasurer of The Harvard Lampoon, it was Lampoon editors who hoisted the red flag of Soviet Russia to the top of the United States Supreme Court's flagpole in Washington.

The flag was sighted at dawn yesterday by government guards. After metropolitan police had struggled and failed to get it down, a fireman was called and succeeded in reaching up with a gasoline torch and burning it off the rope.

"It was only in a spirit of fun," McCahill told the Associated Press. "There was nothing malicious in it. Certainly we have no disrespect for the supreme court. That is one thing we are behind."

Asked how the editors had eluded guards around the building, McCahill replied, "Oh, that was well planned in advance."

Washington, May 8.—Uniformed guardians of decorum at the United States Supreme Court fairly ached today to administer a spanking to the Harvard boys said to have conducted the red flag raising at the August tribunal's very doorstep.

But the pranksters were far from the scene of the "revolution" and so it seemed the incident would blow over.

Bennett Explains Remark on C.N.R.

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 8.—Former Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, speaking in the House of Commons yesterday, said his remark during the budget debate Tuesday that the actual net loss of the Canadian National Railways system last year was $115,000,000 had been inaccurately referred to in the newspapers as a "deficit." A net loss of profit and loss account was "entirely different from a cash deficit," Mr. Bennett said.

LOUD SPEAKERS FOR COMMONS

Washington, May 8.—Plans for transporting approximately $6,000,000,000 in gold bullion from New York and Philadelphia to the new federal vault at Fort Knox, Ky., were disclosed yesterday in a report of hearings before a United States House of Representatives appropriations sub-committee.

C. W. Cram Jr. of the bureau of the mint told the committee it would cost $1,429,240 to ship the bullion, of that $104,440 would be for guards.

Wm. H. McReynolds, administrative assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, in a letter dated March 20, said there was now stored at various agencies 1,002,900,000 ounces of silver.

New British And India Trade Pact

Canadian Press

Simla, India, May 8.—Usually well-informed quarters today understood the government of India would give notice almost immediately of termination of its Ottawa trade agreement with the United Kingdom.

These quarters expressed belief the British Government had agreed to negotiate a fresh agreement. Whether the negotiations would take place in Simla or in London remained unsettled.

The Indian parliament last month approved a motion that the trade agreement—signed during the 1932 imperial economic conference in Ottawa—be terminated.

THE OVERSHADOWING PROBLEM

AT THIS SEASON, WHEN STATESMEN are struggling to maintain the peace of the world and economists tell us we are in the middle of a profound revolution, the thought uppermost in the minds of most families about here, we suspect, is the eternal question of the summer holidays. Where to go? How much ground to cover in those few, precious days? And the cost? These are the grave issues which agitate nearly every household in these days of spring's stirring.

They are issues of such personal importance that one hesitates to introduce into them any sordid commercial calculations. Yet they will have a considerable bearing on the economics of British Columbia in the present summer. The statisticians tell us that instead of making money on the tourist business we lose it because the number of people coming here from the United States is far less than the number of British Columbians going south. On the island, fortunately, this unfavorable balance does not always exist.

The provincial government and various tourist organizations are trying to bring more people north from across the border, but it is a more difficult problem to keep British Columbians within their own province. It is almost true to say that British Columbians appreciate British Columbia less than the outsiders do. Relatively few of our people know the province at all. Only a minority of those living on the Coast have ever seen the interior except from a train window.

The perplexed conference around the family dinner table might remember when it is trying to decide about this year's holidays that the finest playground on earth is just up the road a little way. There are clear trout lakes and green forests on our own island, and sheltered inlets where the salmon run, and the alpine fairyland of the Forbidden Plateau. There is the Cariboo Road winding through the Fraser's black canyon with the river coiling a thousand feet below. There is the range country of the central plateau, with an old-fashioned ranch life on the range. There are the great lakes of the north where the trout run up to twenty pounds. There is the Okanagan where the green orchards march up from the lakes far into the hills. There are the mountains and valleys of the Kootenays, the glaciers and alpine meadows where the yellow avalanche lilies grow.

PROSPERITY AND PEACE

IT IS FAIRLY SAFE TO SAY THAT world peace will not be assured until the world is sanely prosperous and political unrest reduced to a minimum, for in modern Europe, for example, politics seems to follow economics. Ever since the Great War, disturbed economics has meant disturbed politics. When a measure of prosperity arrives, the nations get along with themselves and with one another; when it departs, they fall out and there is trouble.

For rather more than the first half of the post-war decade, European finance and trade were highly unsettled; and those years were also a time of great political unrest. Revolt and counter-revolt swept Central Europe. Italy indulged in a Fascist revolution. France marched into the Ruhr. Turkey fought the Greeks. Within and without, each country faced disorder and acute discontent.

Then, in 1925 or thereabouts, business improved. Currencies became stabilized, international trade revived, war debt and reparations questions were given temporary settlement. And straightway political conditions improved. The Locarno Treaty was signed. The German republic took a new lease on life. If nothing much was actually done about disarmament, the nations at least found it in their hearts to talk about it. The Kellogg Pact was signed amid fine talk about international friendship. Statesmen found it less necessary to turn the gendarmes loose on their own peoples.

Then came another change, about five years later. An economic crisis developed in Austria, moved on to Germany, spread all across the continent; and before long it was reflected in a new, more serious political tension. Germany embraced dictatorship. Spain had a revolution. Italy embarked upon a desperate foreign war. There were bloody riots in France. Britain began hastily to rebuild her fleet and her air force. Talk of war and revolution, unheard for years, began to be heard on every hand.

It is hard to tell whether economic trouble causes political trouble, or vice versa. Maybe the two things more or less cause each other. But the one obvious fact is that they go hand in hand. A prosperous Europe tends to be a peaceful Europe; an unprosperous Europe is ripe for war and revolt.

Stating the case like this only emphasizes the world's dire need for finding the road to international economic recovery—and finding it quickly. If the world hopes to live in peace it must, apparently, learn the secret of keeping healthy its trade and finance.

DON'T WORRY, MR. McPHEE

GEORGE W. McPHEE, LIBERAL MEMber of the Canadian Parliament for Yorkton, Sask., has a highly-developed sense of Parliament's dignity but, one suspects, a somewhat under-developed sense of humor. In the House yesterday, Mr. McPhee protested that the Independence of Parliament Act had been contravened and the historic privilege of all honorable members undermined by Miss MacPhail and Mrs. Black, the only ladies present. It seems that the lady members had given interviews containing their choice of the ten most handsome men in the House, much like the all-star athletic teams which are picked by sports editors from time to time.

Mr. McPhee's sense of Parliament's dignity was particularly affronted by the alleged statements of Miss MacPhail and Mrs. Black that some honorable members "had eyes too close together and ears that stick out." But the Prime Minister hardly thought this was a question of privilege. It seems rather a question of biology over which even the Canadian Parliament has no control.

Evidently the lady members' opinions of the House, from a purely aesthetic point of view, are not very high, but we do not fear, with Mr. McPhee, that this will seriously undermine our parliamentary institutions in the public mind, or threaten the life of our democracy.

The studious, sedentary life which is forced upon men who take their political duties seriously does not make for good looks or athletic figures. It makes rather for premature baldness and an enlargement of the waistline. Thus an assembly of successful men in any line of intellectual endeavor is not apt to be scenically impressive. Perhaps this is merely an old prejudice, but if our parliaments became filled with handsome men of athletic figure, we should begin to fear for its mental capacities. If Miss MacPhail and Mrs. Black could find more than ten really handsome men in the House it would probably be a pretty dangerous sign. Fortunately the danger, at the moment, seems remote.

THE SPANISH PRISONER

DURING THE RECENT SPANISH elections a donkey held up traffic in the main street of Barcelona by standing in the middle of the main street. Police tried in vain to move him, but he refused to budge an inch.

Apparently he was inspired by a belligerent patriotism, for on one of his flanks had been painted the words, "I vote for the Right Front," and on the other, "I represent the Catalan League." This evidently is the refined Spanish way of telling your political opponents that they are asses.

Such slogans on a donkey scandalized Spanish officialdom. The animal was considered guilty of a political offence and was finally arrested and placed under guard in the police stables. Now he refuses to leave and grows fat in his political imprisonment. Government officials do not know what to do with him. Apparently he is not the only ass among the officialdom of Spain.

IF GHOSTS COME BACK

IF GHOSTS EVER COME BACK TO have a look at the old, familiar scenes, the Turks must be getting quite an audience as they proceed with the reoccupation of the Dardanelles.

The Dardanelles created ghosts in plenty—British, French, Australian, and Turkish. A little spit of land protruding into the eastern end of the Mediterranean, the peninsula concentrated on its barren soil some of the most acutely bloody and vicious fighting of the entire World War.

It was, further, the scene of a great hope that failed, of a great plan that somehow missed fire. The memories of those ghosts who must be coming back, if ghosts ever do come back, contain a thousand dramas of failure, of heroism, of victories missed by a hair's breadth.

The attack on the Dardanelles, in the spring of 1915, was one of the "inspirations" of the war. It was the venture that might have saved Europe from three years of ghastly trench warfare. Had it succeeded, the way to Russia would have been opened, Turkey would have been put out of the war, and it would have been possible for the Allies to strike at the Central Powers from the rear. Victory at Gallipoli would probably have won the war within a year.

Nearly 22,000,000 people, more than 10 per cent of the world's population, are out of work in the twenty-one leading industrial countries, according to figures issued by the International Labor Office at Geneva. This total does not include 2,500,000 in German labor camps. The figure represents a drop in unemployment of 4 per cent over the corresponding period of last year, and is largely accounted for by a decline of 432,000 in the United States and 265,000 in Great Britain.

NO EASY TASK
The Regina Leader-Post

For several months it has been obvious that far-reaching changes in the constitution could not be made without much further consultation and negotiation. It was not to be expected that constitutional planks laid down after years of consideration and which had become embedded in the fibre of government could be eliminated or changed around in a few brief conferences and without further consideration by the governing bodies and the people. For these reasons the delay in amending the constitution is not at all surprising. It is important, however, that the primary steps have been taken.

"I VISIT A COOKING SCHOOL"
The Chesterville Record

Several weeks ago The Ottawa Journal held a Cooking School at the Capitol Theatre which was conducted by Miss Claire Andree. I was fortunate in being able to attend one of the four sessions of this school and I thought you would like to hear about it and have some of Miss Andree's recipes and cooking hints.

In the first place, whenever you plan to attend a cooking school in Ottawa, plan to arrive on time—or perhaps it would be more helpful to say get there at least half an hour before the lecture is scheduled to begin. The morning I attended, which was the last of the series, I arrived at 9 o'clock (the sessions began at 9.30) to find a considerable line stretching from the ticket wicket, and by the time I managed to get inside, the theatre was filled almost to the top of the highest balcony.

Such interest in a cooking school should go a long way in denying that the modern woman's most used cooking gadget is the can-opener.

Miss Andree prepared dishes from about a dozen different recipes and I have chosen several of those which appealed especially to me.

AN APPRECIATION

To the Editor:—Would you allow me to thank all those whose splendid co-operative effort resulted in the undoubted success of the Provincial Drama Festival this year.

There are so many whose efficiency and selfsacrificing effort tend to make the festival popular. Some of those who do the major share of the work are hardly seen by the public, while others of us keep pretty steadily in the spotlight. A very heavy load of responsibility and practical work has been carried by our honorary secretary, H. Roy Goldfinch, who is the untiring stage director, calm, obliging and efficient under the most trying circumstances. Mr. Gray and other helpers also deserve our very grateful thanks.

The general interest in the work of this association is spreading throughout the province and the time has come when the name of the association might well be made more indicative of its function by a slight change to "The B.C. Drama Association." It would still have as one of its main objectives the sponsoring of the annual Provincial Drama Festival. "The B.C. Drama Association" would be a central organization with which all the little theatres, guilds, and drama groups throughout the province could affiliate if they so wished. It would provide a means of co-operative unified effort when such is required in the interests of the province.

THE DRAMA FESTIVAL

To the Editor:—"A Visitor From England" has struck exactly the right note in his letter to The Victoria Daily Times of May 4 criticizing the adjudicating at the recent drama festival. His letter expresses the thoughts and echoes the very words of many Victorians who followed the festival with much pleasure and entertainment, but felt that the adjudication left much to be desired. It is perhaps out of courtesy to a stranger and a foreigner that there has been no comment in the press from Victorians themselves, although many have been outspoken in their verbal criticism.

In fairness it must be admitted that the major awards were well merited and met with popular approval. But this only makes it more difficult to understand why the adjudicator—herself the head of a large dramatic school—did not see fit to offer any constructive criticism worthy of the name. She dwelt at some length on the winners and those of outstanding merit, but the others were either damned with faint praise or else passed over without comment, whereas, if they showed faults of staging, acting, costuming, diction, etc., they were the very ones in need of sympathetic constructive criticism.

This omission on the part of the adjudicator left many of us with the impression that her judgments were influenced by prejudices of one sort or another. In one case, her only comment on a very excellent performance was that "It did not interest her." Was she here merely to be interested? Her prejudice in this case clearly penalized the performers, in whom—to judge by the applause—the audience was distinctly interested.

Again, she had an obvious prejudice against children impersonating adults, and said so. But this is no valid criticism, and, if carried to its logical conclusion, would equally debar grownups from any characterization which was outside their experience. Must an actor in a crime play go out and commit murder before he can act the part?

Furthermore, one rather got the general impression that she was only interested in the best, and that the others were beneath her notice—a most unfortunate impression to have given, and most discouraging to the many performers and directors who had worked so hard preparing for the festival.

In the interests of amateur theatricals here, it is hoped that those responsible for choosing an adjudicator will make a happier choice in future, and make it clear that they expect helpful criticisms. At the same time one realizes the enormous difficulties which beset those charged with finding a suitable adjudicator who can be brought here at a cost within our means, and also the difficult task with which an adjudicator is faced in any case.

"MOTHER'S DAY"

To the Editor:—If we write about politics, we are sure to get some "back fire," for most of us would not agree with another party than our own, if we knew they were right. That is the usual attitude of politicians. "Once a Liberal, always a Liberal."

If we write about religion, we are almost sure to tread on some one's toes, for there are more than 600 religions, all of them with a good many adherents. And most of us are so prejudiced that we would not examine another's man's beliefs, for fear we might be wrong.

But there is one subject on which we all agree, whether we be Liberal or Conservative, Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Catholic or Seventh Day Adventist. And it is good to know there is one subject which is of interest to us all, regardless of our color, race, nationality, politics or religion. That subject which appeals to rich and poor, high and low, is being discussed in many different languages in all parts of the world, the subject—mother. The month of May brings us again that day of days, "Mother's Day."

Mother is the one, who, all through the years has seemed to understand. She has overlooked our faults and failings, and stood by us when all others fled, when others had no hope that we would ever make good. She had confidence in us, even if the whole world turned its back and said, "There is no use."

We are happy that one particular day has been set apart in honor of the best friend we ever had or ever will have on this earth. If your mother is alive, let her know through the year that you love her, but do not pass by this one particular day without giving some expression of love to the best, the truest, the most ideal woman in the world.

If your mother is gone, you still reverence her momory, any may want to resolve anew to be the kind of reverance her memory, and may want you to be. And should we not thank our heavenly Father that He gave to us such a priceless gift—a mother.

"God thought to give the sweetest thing in His almighty power
To earth: and deeply pondering
What it should be—one hour
In fondest joy and love of heart
Outweighing ever other,
He moved the gates of heaven apart,
And gave to earth—a mother."

RUSSIA AND MARXISM

To the Editor:—Re the editorial which appeared in The Times of May 6. The statement is made as follows: "It seems to mean that year by year Russia is fast abandoning as impractical the pure Marxian theories on which the revolution was founded."

The reason some of the more advanced workers seem to be "privileged" is that the Soviet leaders wish to encourage the backward workers.

This so-called "privilege" is not a privilege at all, but a reward for co-operation with the state.

This reward system is a necessity just at present, in the U.S.S.R. Of course, when all the peasant workers are enlightened, this system will be done away with, as there would be no object in it.

The Russia of today is not Communistic, as Stalin has said, but is working towards that objective.

DIABETES TOLL RISING FAST

Disease Shows Startling Jump in Last Decade; Millions Doomed to Have It

New York, May 8—An alarming increase in the number of diabetics since the discovery of the insulin treatment in 1922 is revealed in the results of a survey just completed by Collier's and announced today.

Fourteen years ago, 175,000 Americans were condemned to death by the disease, the report states. Then the discovery of insulin by Dr. Banting in Toronto gave them a reprieve. But today there are 400,000 men and women suffering from diabetes in this country, and it is estimated that unless further and rapid progress is made, 2,000,000 Americans now living will come down with the disease before they die.

The startling increase is greater in the United States than in any other country in the world, the survey reveals, and greater among those of the so-called privileged classes than among those less well off. The increase is partially ascribed to the fact that formerly people with diabetes died, whereas now, with the aid of insulin, they live to grow up and have diabetic children. Another factor, the report stated, is that people live longer in general than they used to, and since diabetes tends to come on in later years, as a rule, more people live to get it.

"A really serious cause of the increase," the survey shows, "is the luxurious life most of us not strictly in the laboring class lead. We don't exercise much. We eat tons of candy and ice cream and sweets. America consumes five times as much sugar per person as Italy, for instance. One-fifth of all Americans are overweight, most of that fifth are not youngsters, and the increase in diabetes is among people over forty. Doctors have good reason to believe that, if they could start now and reduce every single member of that overweight fifth of the population, they would reduce the number of diabetics by half or more in a very few years."

In discussing the problem of children born of diabetic mothers, which has been made possible by insulin, the report finds that such a child may lead a worthwhile life.

"In the first place," it states, "two-thirds of all people who develop the disease do not get it until they are over forty, and even counting all those who come down with it in childhood the average age of death among diabetics today is sixty. In 1922 it was only forty-seven."

Clemenceau suffered from diabetes and lived to be eighty-eight, the survey revealed; Minot, who discovered the liver cure for pernicious anemia, never could have done so without the aid of insulin to keep him going; H. G. Wells also is a diabetic, and the late King George V had the disease for many years. Nevertheless, there has been some discussion in Germany, it is stated, of the advisability of sterilizing all diabetics.

Despite the fact that medical science has turned diabetes from a lethal menace into a fairly liveable disease, and that diabetics may now lead happy, normal lives, the report concludes, yet it is increasing at the rate of more than 100,000 a year in the United States. Meanwhile, doctors everywhere are working diligently on the problem, although they do not know exactly what they are seeking, except that something more effective and permanent than insulin, which is expensive and a nuisance, is their goal.

SCHOOL BY-LAW REJECTED

Vernon, May 8 (Canadian Press).—Vernon property owners yesterday turned down by a vote of 228 to 221 the money by-law to authorize the proposed new $100,000 school, towards which the British Columbia government had agreed to contribute $34,000. Less than half of those entitled to vote went to the polls.

A tender of $35.65 per uniform, from Robert Rankin, tailor, was accepted by the Saanich police commission yesterday evening, when considering uniform tenders.

E. F. BURTON HEADS BOARD

Reports Submitted at Annual Meeting of Realtors Held Today

E. Frank Burton of F. R. Brown and Company was today installed president of the Real Estate Board of Victoria. The installation, which followed a ballot conducted privately a week ago, took place at the annual meeting of the board in Spencer's dining-room.

Mr. Burton succeeds T. J. Goodlake, who has held the presidency for the last three years.

H. D. Patterson is first vice-president and R. H. Shanks second vice-president. J. C. Bridgman and Mr. Goodlake become ex-officio members of the executive committee, which this year also includes M. K. Crockett, James Forman, Alex Gillespie and F. J. D. Pemberton. Hubert Lethaby is again secretary-treasurer.

E. FRANK BURTON

The board's successful work during the past year was reviewed by Mr. Goodlake in his presidential report, with special stress laid of the subjects of municipal taxation, the Dominion Housing Act, new passenger elevator regulations, and the board's new scale of minimum fees and charges.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION

"The big question for the property owner continues to be the need for a revised basis of municipal taxation," said the retiring president. The subject, he added, was closely linked with the whole question of the financial relationships of province and municipalities.

"We now live in hope that the fall session of the Legislature will produce something in the way of relief for municipalities and their taxpayers."

The report in this connection paid tribute to the work of the taxation committee of the Vancouver Real Estate Exchange. Delegates from the Victoria board joined with the Vancouver organization in a meeting with the city councils of the two cities and also interviewed the provincial cabinet.

DOMINION HOUSING ACT

On the subject of the Dominion Housing Act, the retiring president said: "So far no lending company, as far as can be ascertained, has been found willing to proceed under the scheme in British Columbia."

With reference to the comment that there were already sufficient houses in Victoria, Mr. Goodlake quoted figures showing that with an allowance of three and a half persons per house, there were still 239 new homes needed to take care of the population.

The report made reference to the work of the board in an attempt to insure equitable effects on all building owners from the new government passenger elevator regulations.

The new scale of minimum fees and charges finally adopted by the board a few weeks ago was more in accordance with the modern system of marketing than the old tariff. He believed the new scale would work out to the advantage of property owners as well as of agents.

Mr. Goodlake reviewed the addresses heard at luncheon meetings during the year, pointing out the variety of the subjects covered.

Reference was made in his report to the northwest regional convention of the United States National Association of Real Estate Boards held in Seattle at the beginning of last month. The Victoria board was represented at the convention by H. D. Patterson, F. J. D. Pemberton and J. A. Bennell.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

The membership of the board is at present fifty-five, said Mr. Lethaby in presenting the secretary's report. It consists of one life member, one honorary member, twenty-one active members, twenty-nine associate members and three affiliated members. This membership is slightly higher than last year.

During the year twenty luncheon meetings were held, with an average attendance of twenty-one. Nine executive meetings were held.

Mr. Lethaby pointed out that salesmen attached to real estate offices which were membership firms were privileged to attend meetings of the Real Estate Board.

The financial statement, also submitted by Mr. Lethaby, showed the board has finished the year with no outstanding liabilities, and that its investments were intact. However, a drawing of $70 had been made from the savings bank interest account

EATING IS IMPORTANT PROBLEM IN VACATION

By MARY E. DAGUE

Vacations and week-end trips are risks for mother because guests and vacationers nearly always over-eat. Mealtime breaks the monotony of travel and the holiday spirit leads us away from our regular diet.

When we like we go on our own power, so to speak, and we need plenty of fuel because we use an extra amount of energy—three good nourishing meals a day but nothing but fruit between meals.

On trains there usually is little fresh air and no exercise. Consequently light, easily digested foods should be chosen. Plenty of vegetables, plain salads, fresh or stewed fruits and broiled or roasted meats without rich gravies and sauces furnish a wholesome and varied enough diet.

Rich desserts and heavy meats should be eaten sparingly. Candy is a temptation to which the wise person will not yield. Drink plenty of water and eat fruit between meals

MOTORING STIMULATES APPETITE

Motoring inevitably makes one hungry because fresh air stimulates the appetite. However, lack of exercise makes it necessary to plan meals with care here, too. Bulky foods, coarse cereals, leafy vegetables and plenty of fruits are best. Three well-balanced meals a day should be thoughtfully selected. By all means eat regularly! Don't go an hour or so past the lunch or dinner hour with the hope of finding "something better" down the road. Meals at irregular hours cause many a headache and irritability that could have been avoided.

When children are in the party extreme care of their diet and rest times should be observed. Between meal ice-cream cones, pop, confections should be forbidden. Apples oranges, bananas and various fruits in season are not harmful. Continuous driving and change of scene with little exercise tires children and they need much consideration. They must eat plain, well-cooked and nourishing foods which are easily digested. They must have their meals as regularly as they would at home.

BE CAREFUL ABOUT WATER

It is a good idea to have juicy fruit and crackers in the car. Then if the distance between stops is misjudged or an unforeseen and tedious detour must be made, the fruit and crackers can be pressed into service and will help to ward off a hungry headache.

We always carry a thermos bottle of water with us and have it refilled with water that has been tested and found pure and safe for drinking. Or you can have the bottle refilled with distilled water at any drug store and run no risk of being upset by strange water. On trains and boats passengers always are insured of pure drinking water.

Tomorrow's Menu

Grants of $25 and $10 were authorized for the Vancouver Island Horticultural Society and the S.P.C.A. by the Saanich Council yesterday evening.

She LOVED THE FIZZY TICKLE ON HER NOSE

"Fifty years ago in sunny Bermuda my parents used Eno's 'Fruit Salt' as a family medicine. As a wee girl I can remember the bottle, kept for protection in its outside wrapper. How appetizing the grapes looked to me! How I loved the fizzy tickle on my nose! Mother gave it to us for prickly heat, digestive ailments and as a laxative. Now my own children take it, and much prefer it to other salts.

Sits for Eight Hours a Day

"I am a linotype operator and I am compelled to sit in close concentration for eight long hours a day. I find that Eno is the only remedy that counteracts the languid, constipated, drowsy feeling that usually comes during the day. I highly recommend Eno to the millions of clerks, stenographers, bookkeepers—all persons who work in closely confined offices, factories and stores."

FIRST PLAY WINS SLAM

Declarer Forced to Make Decision on Opening Lead, Which Results in End Play for Six-odd

By WM. E. McKENNEY

A great number of the same faces are seen at all important bridge tournaments. While the prizes at championship tourneys are limited to loving cups, it is the honor that the players seek.

Here's a hand that Mrs. Young played in a recent tournament in New York. Her decision had to be accurate on the very first trick.

Over the one heart bid, North made the natural one-over-one response in preference to showing the heart support, which, if necessary, could be shown on a later round. When South, however, showed a four-card heart suit and a well-balanced hand, North was correct in allowing the hand to be played at no trump rather than at hearts.

When West opened the seven of clubs, Mrs. Young, sitting in the South, was immediately confronted by the problem of what card to play from dummy. The lead of the seven indicated that West was attacking the hand with a long, strong suit, and therefore he had to have a re-entry.

If this were true, a possible end-play might be executed. So, instead of allowing the trick to ride around to her queen, declarer played the ten spot from dummy, hoping that West held both king and jack, in which case she would still have a tenace position in clubs.

When the ten held, the heart suit was started, the first trick being won with the ace. The dummy was entered by playing a spade and then the heart finesse was taken.

A small diamond was led toward dummy's queen, as West was practically marked with the ace of diamonds. West had to play low on this trick, or six odd would be easy

When dummy's queen held, the remainder of the hearts and spades were cashed. West had to blank down to the ace of diamonds, to protect the king of clubs.

A diamond was played, throwing West into the lead. This forced West to play clubs and gave declarer six odd.

Today's Contract Problem

North is playing the contract at seven hearts. West has bid clubs. This, combined with the opening lead, should give North sufficient information to help him make the contract.

"... must remember to pay our bills!"

We quarreled that morning ... and about the silliest thing! Not so silly either, since it meant our success.

I was just marking the calendar as a reminder when in walked Bob.

"What are you doing, Honey?"

I muttered, "Oh, bills ... must remember to pay them!"

"What's the hurry? Let 'em go for a while. What's the good of credit if you don't string it out a bit?"

"Bob! You should be ashamed of yourself!" After a few more digs, I got my Irish up and told him what was what about this "bill" business.

"Don't you realize that our creditors have to eat, too? If everybody put off paying bills, we'd all soon cease to have doctors or grocers or stores on anyone who is good enough to give credit. How would you feel if the company 'put off' paying your salary for three months?"

"Not so good!"

"And another thing! Remember when I was in the hospital? It was credit that pulled us through, wasn't it? Now that we're on our feet again, it's only fair that we play square and pay promptly!"

"I know the ones you mean! But, Bob, people talk about them! Actually, they're being supported by their creditors. Why, the poorest family that pays their bills every month is better than they are."

"You win, you win!" said Bob, holding up his hands. I smiled, but couldn't help adding, "You'll thank your lucky stars some day for having me as your wife!"

You, too, can be free of needless worry over bills. Form the habit of paying promptly, and your credit will always be a pleasure to use.

ISLAND "QUEEN" TO COME HERE

Ladysmith, May 8.—At a public meeting Wednesday arrangements for Ladysmith's annual Dominion Day celebration were advanced.

Mayor W. W. Walkem is president, R. S. Wood secretary and N. A. Morrison treasurer. Seven committees were struck and chairmen for each appointed. A day of field sports and other events for children and adults will be held and, probably, a novel departure for this city, loggers' events, including sawing and bucking, will be introduced. The day will wind up with a big dance in the Agricultural Hall.

In reply to a communication from the secretary of the Empire Day celebration committee at Victoria, it was intimated that Miss Belle Beattie is "Miss Ladysmith." The request of the Victoria committee for her participation at the crowning of Victoria's queen will be complied with if satisfactory plans can be completed.

DUCE PRAISES ITALY'S WOMEN

Canadian Press

Rome, May 8.—Premier Mussolini told 50,000 cheering women gathered before his palace yesterday that Italy's victory was partly due to her women.

To his enthusiastic admirers Il Duce shouted:

"Fascist Italy, surrounded by a sanctionist siege organized by fifty-two countries, thrust on you a task to which you were equal.

"The country expresses its gratitude to you and tells you your example will remain memorable in Italy's history."

The women cheered Mussolini until he had to make seven consecutive appearances on the balcony. Some of the women carried a big placard reading: "Duce—our sons belong to you."

Board Refuses Compensation

Saanich Trustees Decline Moral Responsibility For Injured Pupils; Council Acts

Compensation for parents of two Saanich school pupils who were injured during school hours will be sought from the municipal trustees by a special committee of the council.

Details of the two cases were presented to the council yesterday evening by James Warnock of the Central Ratepayers' Association, who appeared on behalf of the two families whose cases have been taken up by the association.

In one instance the boy was hurt while competing in pole-vaulting events at the Saanichton fair last year. He suffered an injured back which necessitate hospital treatment with a doctor, the total bill for which was about $55.

ASK ASSISTANCE

The parents applied to the school board for compensation, but the trustees declined any legal responsibility.

While the trustees had no legal responsibility they were certainly morally responsible, Reeve Crouch said, explaining he had written the trustees about the question. The reeve said he had informed those concerned of his sympathy in the matter, and told them he had proposed the council and trustees should bear one-half the costs.

The trustees had replied they had no legal right to make such a grant, but the reeve questioned this and felt they had.

SUPPORT REEVE

Councillors E. C. Warren, Ward Two; A. G. Lambrick, Ward Three; L. C. Hagan, Ward Six, and L. Passmore, Ward Seven, all supported the reeve in his belief and felt some compensation should be given.

Councillors W. R. Woods, Warren and Lambrick were appointed a committee to inquire into the case.

The case of another boy who was struck by a stone and injured on one of the school grounds on March 29 last year will also be investigated. In the following May, Mr. Warnock told the council, his mother had written the trustees, asking compensation for payment of medical bills. Her letter was considered at a meeting on June 5 and she did not receive a reply until June 25, to the effect the trustees would not acknowledge responsibility.

By this time the ninety days permitted for launching a damage suit had elapsed, except for four days, and although she tried the mother was too late in launching action because the school board required thirty days' notice of such suit.

MONSTER CROW SHOOT MAY 17

Duncan Game Association Extends Invitation to Local Body to Join Expedition

An invitation to members of the Victoria and District Fish and Game Association and other local hunters to join in a monster crow shoot in the Cowichan district on May 17 has been extended by the Cowichan Fish and Game Association of Duncan.

A large number of hunters are expected to form the expedition and with crows very numerous a large total should be bagged. It is exciting sport and all over the continent expeditions are being formed daily to do away with the noisy pests.

Those persons wishing to take part in the shoot are asked to get in touch with either President Roger Monteith or Red Shemilt, secretary.

SOOKE

The monthly meeting of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute was held in the Sooke Community Hall on Tuesday evening. Needlework and knitting for the Solarium was distributed among the members. It was left for the June meeting to decide whether or not the semi-monthly card parties will be continued. The president introduced J. Morkill and two other members of the Victoria Horticultural Society, who spoke. Slides were shown demonstrating the making of rock gardens and an interesting talk on tulip growing was appreciated. At the close of the evening tea was served by Mrs. K. Graignic, Mrs. R. Strong, Mrs. K. Cains, Mrs. A. Sullivan and Mrs. W. Cains.

The women's auxiliary to the Sooke branch of the Canadian Legion met in the Community Hall Wednesday. One new member was welcomed. Plans were made to hold a silver tea in the hall on the afternoon of May 20 with Mrs. R. Strong, Mrs. G. H. Jones, Mrs. F. Thornber and Mrs. A. L. Wilson in charge.

The Boy Scout committee will give a card party of court whist and auction bridge in the Sooke Community Hall on Wednesday evening, May 13.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Holy Trinity Church will be held at the home of Mrs. J. P. Noury, next Wednesday, at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. F. Norton of Deer Harbor and Mrs. H. Wilson and son of Victoria are guests at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilson.

Major and Mrs. D. Porteous and Miss Patsy Porteous of Victoria have taken up their residence on Kaltasin Beach Road for the summer months.

Proof of the lasting efficacy of 'Phyllosan' tablets

For years Mr. —— had felt the physical and mental slowing-up effects which so often come with middle age. In 1933 he started taking 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets. He felt the benefit within a week. The benefits were lasting. To-day he is "as fit as ever."

READ HIS LETTERS:

THEN—"I had suffered for years. I was constantly worrying, feeling that I was only just squeezing by. I thought I would try 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets. I got a bottle on Tuesday and by the Friday following I could feel the benefit. My friends now say how well I look and I simply say: 'Yes, and I can only thank 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets for it.'"

TO-DAY—"The benefits received from taking 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets have continued, and to-day I am as fit as ever. I have been taking about six tablets a week just to prevent a recurrence of my trouble. I have given your tablets a thorough test and can confirm all that you claim for them."

It is because their beneficial effect is progressive and lasting that 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets have won the unstinted approval of the medical profession and the confidence of men and women all over the world.

'PHYLLOSAN' tablets increase the vital forces of the body—give a feeling of new life and vitality.

If you are run-down, 'nervy' or 'feeling your age' start taking 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets to-day! Take two of these tiny tablets three times a day before meals. Take them regularly. The results will encourage you highly.

'PHYLLOSAN' tablets are prepared according to the formula and under the direction of E. Buergi, M.D., Professor of Medicine at Berne University. 22

UNCERTAINTY AT START WORST, SAYS SCADDING

Men Trapped in Moose River Mine Worried Whether Rescue Workers Aware of Life Would Hurry; Bulging Timber Gave Warning of Slide As They Sought Way Out

Alfred Scadding, who with Dr. D. E. Robertson, survived the Moose River mine entombment, and who collaborated with Dr. Robertson in the latter's personal story of their experience, contributes this final article of the series, which was donated by them to the Red Cross.

Halifax (By Airmail) — I am sorry to have been so ill that I could not collaborate more fully in the splendid straightforward story of our experiences for the Red Cross of Canada, which Dr. Robertson has told.

Owing to my feet being encased in glass boots for six hours a day with suction pumps slowly helping the blood find its way back through the lost veins of my feet it is not altogether easy for me to relax into a story-telling mood.

I first wish to express my respect for the courage and manhood of the two men with whom I was entombed those ten days. They were unfamiliar with the mine. I at least had had three months around the mine to learn its ways and become fairly familiar with the geography of it and, what is more important, to become familiar with the character of the men of Nova Scotia. Although for the first four days our greatest fear was that the men above would assume we were dead and not make a fast enough effort to rescue us, I must say I had faith from the very start that whatever it was possible to do for us those men I had got to know around Moose River mines would do it.

The instant the crash happened I realized I was in a difficult situation, in that I first had to persuade two men who were my employers that what I thought wise to do was right; and then I had to bear the responsibility for whatever course I advised. My first thought was to get at once along the eastward drift toward the solid rock at the far end of the property. Alongside the solid rock there, untouched by miners, was less likelihood of collapse than anywhere in the neighborhood of the shaft, where stopes had been cut out in past years.

SAW HUGE TIMBER BULGING

We got to that eastern end of the drift and waited, while I steadily argued the point that we should hold still until the mine should cease its terrible falling.

One of the things I shall remember to my dying day was our effort to work upward through the stopes from that eastern end of the drift. We clambered up stopes and over cribs and timbers, the lantern lighting our way. I was leading. We had just negotiated a very awkward timber crib which leaned outward at the top and had started across the broken rock above it when I saw to my horror a huge upright timber, a solid log, perhaps two feet thick, slowly and with a busy crackling sound start to bulge and burst in the middle. The hanging wall above it seemed to be oozing slowly down. I wheeled and shouted, making as good time as I could. Magill and the doctor went down over that broken rock and tangled timber in a fashion that would do credit to Varsity rugby players.

I will never forget the sight of them in the leaping light of my lantern, as we raced, plunging down the steep sloping cavern filled with ruin. A few hours later, when the mine grew somewhat quieter we crept back to investigate this avenue of escape more fully. The stope we had been in was crushed flat.

I recall a curious thing Magill said there, as we stood looking up in the lantern light at the place we had been.

"Do you realize the date?" he asked us.

It was now April 13.

FIRST FOUR DAYS HARDEST

I have gone over in my mind carefully to discover what part of the whole ten days was hardest to bear. And I think it was those first four days of uncertainty as to whether they thought we were alive or dead. We could detect blasts and drills during the daytime but at night it seemed to us the work ceased. We have since learned this was not so, that the work went on furiously all the time, day and night. Perhaps some atmospheric action at night dulls sounds through earth, but we were uncertain in our minds as to whether this working, as we thought, by day shifts alone, indicated that they thought we were dead and were taking their time about getting down to us. That I know in my own case was the hardest part of the whole ordeal to bear.

I was not hungry at any time. My feet began to give me trouble very soon, owing to the constant wetness, the eternal drip, the coldness and inactivity. Later the fierce pains in my joints and hips added to my troubles. But none of these things, no physical suffering whatever bothered me as much at first as the fear that they thought we were dead, and second, the fear, after they had discovered us, that in blasting or otherwise cutting their way down to us, as we supposed through the main shaft, they would start another collapse. Everything paled in my mind before that thought.

THOUGHT MINE WAS ON FIRE

The drill when it came through to us did not come through the side wall of the shaft but through the ceiling of the shaft, so to speak. We heard it drilling but could not locate the sound. It came out, as you now know, not in the landing off which our cubby hole was situated, but underneath the landing stage.

When the first signal fuse came down throwing a weird pinkish red light, I supposed the mine was on fire; the friction of the cave-in had started timbers burning. At any rate, I dashed for the opening in the wooden landing or platform and Dr. Robertson passed me cupfuls of water which I slashed down furiously at the unrecognized messenger of good tidings.

I put it out. It sputtered protestingly. I crawled back to our little cavern, though if I had waited a few minutes, I would have seen Billie Bell's little flashlight protrude its eye out of the drill hole. A little while later, compressed air began to hiss and roar out of the drill hole, but still we could not get it through our heads that there was a communication there. I suppose it was air the rescuers were forcing down the old steam pipes for some reason.

We heard pounding and air hissing all day and, after some hours, the whistle began to screech down below the platform. Finally we realized the whistle was a signal, not a part of the process of rescuing us.

FELT WAY DOWN SHAFT

I explored out on to the wooden landing with the last dim fading rays of my flashlight and peered down the ladder hole of the shaft. You understand that the wooden platform completely floored off the shaft, with three holes or open traps in the planks, the one on the right, looking downshaft, being for the skip and its rails; the middle one was for the ladder, the one on the left was for the steam and water pipes. I peered down into the darkness of the deep and steep shaft where the whistle was screaming. I felt my way carefully down the ladder a couple of rungs. My feet had no feeling whatever.

I knew, of course, the shaft dipped steeply and dropped at a steep angle into the abyss 230 feet below. But the whistle required to be investigated. It seemed to be somewhere up in the hanging wall or ceiling of the shaft. I climbed the plank fence breast high that divided the ladder shaft from the pipe shaft, and felt up in to the darkness. Bracing myself on rocks and pipes I felt a pipe. The pipe was vibrating with the wild whistle.

I seized a stone and began to bang the pipe. The whistle ceased. A loud banging answered my banging. It was Billie Bell pounding with his wrench. In about four minutes, and they seemed long minutes to me clinging there above that steep dark shaft below the landing, a voice shouted.

"Hello."

I shouted back.

Dr. Robertson felt his way out to the platform above and looked down through the hole at me shouting into the tube.

COMMUNICATION WITH LIFE

We were in communication with the world, with life itself and from the drill hole through which the drill pipe projected a veritable tap of icy water poured straight down on me. And Billie Bell was trying to tell me he was at the surface and I was trying to find how many feet he was away from us because his voice was so clear I thought he could only be ten feet away.

Many people still cannot understand why we were so reluctant to come to the tube for food.

The whole world to us, of course, was just one eternal loud drip and gurgle and chatter of water. We avoided it as best we could. But when I crept down that hole and on to the ladder, feeling the shaft dropping a sheer 230 feet below me, the ladder greasy, my hands so rough I hardly had any feeling in them, my feet no longer feeling anything at all, and with a nasty climb over a sort of fence to get to the pipe, and then, from the drill hole itself to get a regular drowning from a flow of water like an inch and a half water tap, for that was precisely what it was, you can understand how soon we came to a decision not to bother about that pipe.

And we weren't hungry, anyway. That is, hungry for anything except the sound of the human voice, and the sounds of human action, the drills, the blasting.

COULDN'T HAVE HAD BETTER MEN

Some day I hope to be able to tell you all the strange and curious happenings, the curious conversations. The fancies that came to us. The dreams we suffered. It will interest you to know that in all the time we were down there suffering to the full stretch of our nerves, none of the three of us emitted a single curse word.

If I had searched the whole wide world, and I have been to the war and down in Florida in the boom days and have mixed with men in many parts of the world, if I had searched the whole world I do not believe I could have found two men with whom I could better have faced that tragedy than Dr. Robertson and Herman Magill. Magill was distressed because he thought he had got us two into the mess. But we soon mended that. Even when he was dying in pain, every time he recovered enough consciousness to know what was happening to him, it was to beg our pardon for troubling us. They were splendid, and after Magill died, and I had fears for the doctor, I promised myself that I would not be left alone if he went. It would be the three of us, all the way. And I know I meant it.

These are only a few of the things that occur to me as needing explanation as far as I am concerned. Each one of us did just the best he could. I had no conception, not even in the war, of the full meaning of human comradeship as it was revealed in this tragic affair.

When I am well enough, I will try to do justice to it. I hope everyone understands that every man who came down to rescue us not only was placing himself in the same danger we were in, but what is more, every one of them knew it.

For countless messages from friends known and unknown, I want to say thanks. For countless kindnesses showered on us, on my wife, mother and brother, I don't know how to express our gratitude fully enough.

Just give me your prayers once in a while until these feet remember what they are for again, and maybe I will come and see you and thank you every one, though I guess that would take me all over the world.

SAANICHTON

Plans are now getting under way for the annual banquet of the Saanich Pioneer Society in the Pioneer Log Cabin at Saanichton on May 29.

At a recent meeting of the society the following officers were elected: President, L. C. Hagen; vice-presidents, Mrs. J. J. White and J. Malcolm; secretary, Elmer John; treasurer, R. E. Nimmo.

A number of prominent speakers will deliver short addresses at the banquet, interspersed with a concert programme.

Eight tables participated in the cribbage game in the Pioneer Log Cabin on Wednesday evening. High scores for the evening were held by Mrs. F. Dawson and A. Smith. The next game will be held May 20.

"I CONGRATULATE MYSELF ON MY STOUT COMPANION"

That is what Dr. Robertson wrote of Alfred Scadding, "Alf," as the doctor now affectionately calls him. The admiration arose out of the fortitude with which Mr. Scadding bore his sufferings after the doctor had told him, regarding his trench feet, he could "do nothing for him but sympathize with him." Speaking of the time when he told Mr. Scadding that Herman Magill was dead, Dr. Robertson says, "I was again filled with admiration for Alf—his ability to meet dreadful situations gave me confidence." "Alf" is shown above in the exact garb and leather hat with ear-flaps, in which the doctor says he entered the Moose River mine on the fateful underground journey.

A.Y.P.A. Postpone Nominations

The nomination of officers, which was to have been held at the meeting of the Christ Church Cathedral A.Y.P.A. on Wednesday evening, was postponed owing to a rather poor attendance and will be held May 13.

An impromptu programme was arranged in the form of a newspaper night, and proved very successful and amusing. A short sing-song brought the meeting to a close. Members are reminded of the corporate communion on Sunday morning, and the boys are asked to assist with the ushering in the Cathedral on Sunday evening.

A first-class programme has been arranged for the concert, which the A.Y.P.A. is holding on Saturday evening, May 9. A special feature of the concert will be a number by the Christ Church Cathedral Bell Ringers—a group of handbell ringers, who have been preparing for change ringing on the actual peal, which is now on its way from England, and shortly to be installed in the cathedral

An application was received from H. Blanchard for position of principal of the proposed junior high school, should it be put into effect.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

When the prospective mother goes to the hospital to make arrangements for her baby's birth, she selects the room she can pay for and asks the attendant questions about what she is expected to bring for herself and the baby. If the hospital arrangements are made by the obstetrician he will give her the necessary instructions. These matters should not be left up to the advice of neighbors of friends, as each hospital has its own requirements, and it is these the mother should fulfill.

WHAT CLOTHES FOR JULY?

In the following case the mother has had inadequate instructions. Mrs. M. C. writes: "I am very interested in your column, and will look forward to seeing my question answered in it. I am going to the hospital in July. They told me to bring baby clothes sufficient to take the baby home in, and since it is a hot month I do not know exactly what these would be. Also, I was told to bring four washable nightgowns for myself. What do they mean? I thought all nightgowns were washable."

You may have the leaflets, "prenatal Care," and "Two Sample Summer Layettes," for only a 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope sent to this department with your request for them.

HOSPITAL WARDROBES

You will probably bring the baby home in his own small basket and, though it is warm, such a new baby will need protective garments Usually the going home wardrobe will consist of a light-weight, long-sleeved cotton shirt, diapers and a cotton, flannel or knitted nightgown or a cotton flannel kimono. Around the baby you will use a light-weight blanket.

As for yourself you will need in addition to the nightgowns (which of course are always washable) an attractive bed jacket for use when you are sitting up in the hospital, your kimono, slippers, and your own toilet articles.

TAG DAY FOR ST. JOSEPH'S

Appeal to Be Made Tomorrow For Pioneer Institution

Tomorrow, uniformed nurses, members of the ladies' auxiliary and other friends of St. Joseph's Hospital will solicit donations for the institution, on the occasion of the annual tag day in aid of the hospital.

Recent events have emphasized the sixty years of community service which the Sisters have given in Victoria, bringing physical and spiritual solace to those in need of it. During the depression the hospital has been carrying a heavy burden by caring for many indigent patients at an estimated cost of about $25,000 per year, for which no government funds are available.

But, despite the financial stress, the very high standards of the hospital have been fully maintained, and every patient, whether indigent or paying, receives the same efficient, sympathetic and unremitting care.

The Sisters feel confident that tomorrow's appeal will meet with the same generous response as has greeted them on every previous occasion on which they have approached the sympathetic public. No donation is too large and none too small to be welcomed.

Mrs. Frank J. Sehl, president of the auxiliary, is acting as general convener of the tag day, and taggers will be out with their collecting boxes at an early hour.

BISHOP SEXTON TALKS TO A.Y.P.A.

On Monday evening St. John's A.Y.P.A. heard a very interesting address by Bishop Sexton. In his address he spoke of New Zealand and Australia, in which latter country he has spent a great deal of his time "The harbor of Sydney, with its blue waters and picturesque surroundings is indescribile, and one has to see it before its magnificence can be realized," the bishop remarked.

The city of Melbourne, with its colorful boulevards and wonderful homes, the cities of Adelaide and Perth, all are centres of industry, and the greater per cent of the population. As there is 1,250,000 people in Sydney, the coadjutor explained how it was more or less a drawback to the country. The populace is so centralized, thus allowing a lot of the land to be left uncultivated.

The land of A.B.C. (apple, beer and cider), Tasmania was described as most alluring, and has much the same climate as Victoria.

He then gave the A.Y. a short insight as to religious affairs in Australia, and among the sheep shearers.

Nominations for next year were as follows: President, Lenora Trickett, Al Paver and Stan Laver; vice-president, Harold Parrott, Jack Vesey and Stan Laver; secretary, Marjorie Dixon, Margaret Relf and Lenora Trickett; corresponding secretary, Thora Harrison and Jean Jackson; treasurer, Florence Malcolm, Al Paver and Helen Forsyth; publicity secretary, Doreen Maynard and Clarenda Jeeves.

These nominations are subject to change at the annual meeting on May 18, at which every initiated member is urged to attend and exercise his or her vote.

The next meeting will take place in the schoolroom on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served

Gives Impressions of Recent Visit to Italy

Mrs. D. B. McConnan Tells I.O.D.E. of Mussolini's Propaganda Maps and Reclamation Work in Interesting Talk

Mrs. D. B. McConnan, one of the charter members of the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter I.O.D.E., was the special speaker at their regular meeting held yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. McConnan recently returned from an eighteen-month tour which included England, Scotland, Wales, France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, the United States and Canada.

She described the many places visited, marvelous things she had seen and people she had met. At this time of so much interest being centered around Italy and Mussolini in particular, her impressions about the adoration of the Italian people for Mussolini and her description of seeing the Italian soldiers leaving Naples on transport ships for service in Ethiopia were timely.

Mrs. McConnan saw the reclaimed ground which Mussolini has turned into a veritable garden, producing wonderful harvests of vegetables and wheat.

SIGNIFICANT MAPS

One of the most significant things the speaker mentioned regarding the Italian situation was the placing in public places of a series of maps. The first shows Rome twenty years ago, before Mussolini took control; then one of Rome today, showing great improvements, and one of Italy as it was when she owned England—then a blank square with a question mark on it—inferring whatever one might care to read into it.

While in Italy Mrs. McConnan saw: Florence, with its art galleries with priceless pictures and sculpture; Rome, with St. Peter's and the Vatican Library with its irreplaceable treasures; Naples and its wonderful scenery; Vesuvius, Pompeii and the blue Grotto and Isle of Capri.

Mrs. McConnan spent considerable time in France, staying at the chateau of a friend amid beautiful surroundings.

Returning to England, the speaker was privileged to attend the silver jubilee celebrations in London.

Mrs. A. S. Christie moved a hearty vote of thanks to the guest speaker and Miss Crease seconded it

Mrs. William Ellis, municipal regent, was appointed by the chapter to represent them at the forthcoming national meeting to be held at Port Garry Hotel, Winnipeg, commencing May 29.

The I.O.D.E. intercession service preceding the national annual meeting will be held at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, on Sunday, May 31.

Several members signified their intention of attending the service at the war memorial on May 23 and the luncheon which will be subsequently held in Spencer's dining-room.

Bills covering three months' donations to Girl Guides, upkeep of soldiers' graves, sea cadets and Red Cross Workshop were ordered paid.

Mrs. Pillar, educational secretary, reported receiving letters from Beacon Hill and Saanich Schools voicing their appreciation for copies of the late King's speech to the children. Miss Lee, Girl Guides' convener, reported that she represented the chapter at the provincial meeting of Girl Guides.

Mrs. Colin Cummins presented her report as delegate to the provincial meeting held recently, and Mrs. A. S. Christie and Mrs. Walter expressed appreciation on behalf of the members of the chapter.

A bridge tea is to be held next Thursday, May 14, at Spencer's dining-room, commencing at 2.45 o'clock. This tea is being held to raise funds to assist the chapter in meeting its many obligations. Anyone desiring to attend will please phone the secretary, Mrs. Bertha Parsons, at G 7491. Tea guests will be welcomed at 3.45 o'clock.

The chapter stood in silent tribute to the memory of the late D. B. Plunkett, M.P.

Garden Party To Replace Courts

King To Receive "Debs" At Open-air Functions At Buckingham Palace

London (Special Correspondence).—Debutantes will be presented to the King in the open air this year.

This is the result of an official announcement from Buckingham Palace that there will be two afternoon garden receptions to take the place of the Royal Courts.

The receptions will be on Tuesday, July 21, and Wednesday, July 22. The King will hold them in the garden of Buckingham Palace. Presentation will then be made of ladies who would have been presented at the Courts.

Mourning will not be worn at these receptions. This means that women will be able to wear colored gowns, as the period of full court mourning ends on July 20. Men will wear ordinary morning clothes.

Detailed arrangements for the presentations have yet to be announced but it is understood that the debutantes will pass before the King, making their bows, just as at a Court.

The King, with Queen Mary and the members of the family in the Royal Circle around him will sit probably on a gilt armchair under the Delhi Durbar canopy of scarlet and gold, supported on four posts of solid silver, at the end of the main lawn of the Palace.

It was under this canopy that King George and Queen Mary used to receive foreign diplomats at the royal garden parties.

Announcement of the receptions gives promise of a brilliant season ahead, even though it might not be as colorful and gay as in recent years. Dressmakers welcome it. It means a great fillip to their trade. Dresses for the open-air "Courts" will, it is considered, give plenty of scope for new colors and new designs.

GIRL CLAIMS SCOTTISH CHIEFTANCY

Miss Catriona Louise Maclean of Ardgour, eldest daughter of the late Alexander John Hew Maclean of Ardgour, sixteenth laird and chieftain of Ardgour, has presented this petition to the Court of the Lord Lyon King of Arms.

In her petition she refers to herself as "Chieftainess or real head of the house, branch or family of Maclean of Ardgour and Chieftainess of the country of Ardgour." She claims the "undifferenced and principal armorial bearings matriculated in Lyon Register by her father in 1909."

The petition she lodged is a sequel to a discussion which has ensued in the last twelve months regarding her right to the chieftancy.

Her claim to the armorial bearings (helmet, crest and motto) is interesting because she submits evidence that in Scottish heraldry these are officially allowed to women who have succeeded to the chieftancy of their house.

To her petition was added a "written case" of some 240 pages regarding the principles of chieftancy and the representation of families in Scotland.

TRADE TREATY IS TO BE REVISED

Canadian Press

London, May 8.—Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, yesterday announced the British and Argentine governments were exchanging notes to enable the existing trade agreement between the two countries to be terminated November 7.

Meantime, he said, discussion was proceeding for revision of the agreement reached in 1933.

Gorgeous

BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

And Carol hadn't told the truth about Tim. She had said he was "mad about her," but when Toby had mentioned the other girl casually, Tim hadn't shown the slightest interest. Just said, yes, he knew her and then gone on to some other subject.

Well, because Carol Marsh had mentioned the Seville Club was no reason Toby shouldn't go there.

* * *

She put the other girl out of her mind and began chattering about happenings of the last two days—the re-takes, and how she had spent the evening before, pasting up clippings in the scrap-book she was making of advertisements in which he picture appeared. Toby had learned that all of the girls who modeled kept scrap-books

And there were the children she'd seen at the Models' League office. Half a dozen brothers and sisters, none over twelve years old, and every one of them a professional model with years of "experience."

"Do you know what Bill Pryor told me?" she asked. "He's the man I worked with in that washing machine advertisement. Bill's wife used to be a model, too. They have a baby now, a little darling—Bill showed me a snapshot of him. The baby's only six weeks old and already he's posed in some pictures. For a baby food company. Bill said he was just grand about it and the agency wants to use him again."

Tim put up both hands in protest "Six weeks old and a working man! Say, that's making it tough for an old codger like me. I always supposed that until a fellow was able to walk and talk he could sort of take it easy."

"But the baby loved it. He had a grand time."

They were at the Seville Club now. Outside it looked much like any of the other supper clubs to which Toby had gone with Tim. When they entered, however, she saw that there was more formality here—in the decoration of the rooms, in the way she and Tim were received, in the manner and appearance of the men and women about them. Toby wished Tim had told her. The little black hat with its red rose didn't seem quite the thing here.

Then she remembered that Tim hadn't known they were coming. It had been decided on the spur of the moment. Besides, it must be all right. There was a woman at the left in a grey outfit almost as informal as Toby's. Others, too, here and there about the room.

Toby decided not to think any more about what she was wearing. She was with Tim again, and they had the whole evening before them. Nothing was to spoil her pleasure tonight. She said, looking about her, "This is a nice place, Tim. It's the first time I've been here."

"That so?"

He was always forgetting that all of these places were new to her, that Toby's idea of an evening's celebration, until she had met Tim, had been a cafeteria dinner and a movie.

* * *

Tim ordered drinks—an extremely mild one for Toby, which he knew she would barely sip, and a highball for himself. Toby didn't like cocktails. Besides, she knew what they did to a face that must be flawless before the camera.

The dance band was playing now. It was a band famous from coast to coast. Rhythmic melody floated out over the room and diners drifted from their tables to the polished space in the centre of the room.

Tim leaned forward. "See that girl over there?" he said. "The one in blue?"

Toby saw the one he meant. "Yes," she said. "She's very beautiful, isn't she?"

"Know who that is?"

"No."

"That's Gilda Lang. She's going to Hollywood to make a picture."

Gilda Lang was an English actress, famous on both sides of the Atlantic. Toby said excitedly. "Really, Tim? Is it really Gilda Lang?"

"Of course it is. And that's Todd Manders with her. I bumped into them last night—"

"Last night? I thought you were at home?"

"I was but I—er, I saw them on the street. They say Manders is crazy about Gilda. Well, you can't blame him for that. Looks like a million, doesn't she? Do you remember that last show of hers, year before last?"

"No I—I didn't see it."

Tim knew a great deal about the theatre. Toby had been most impressed by all he had told her about actors and actresses and the plays they appeared in. Bits of gossip about this one and that. He knew who were in the new plays, even before they had opened, who suffered the financial loss when a play "flopped." A dozen times he had pointed out celebrities to her—producers, playwrights, song writers as well as actors and dancers and chorus girls. Toby thought it was amazing that he remembered them all.

* * *

Tim finished his drink and ordered a second. He went on talking about Gilda Lang. "She was a sensation in that play," he said. "It was one of the biggest hits of the year. A sell-out every night. And then suddenly Gilda decided she wanted to go back to London, and nothing could stop her. Just like that, the play closed. Oh, she's temperamental—but what an actress! I wonder how she'll get along in Hollywood."

"She ought to be grand in pictures," Toby said. "She's certainly beautiful enough. Look, they're going to dance—"

Gilda Lang and the man with her had arisen and were moving toward the space reserved for dancing. The actress's unusual beauty fascinated Toby; she could scarcely take her eyes away. Gilda Lang's blonde hair lay in sleek ringlets about her head. The blue gown was a sheath for an exquisite figure. But the surprising thing about Gilda Lang was that her face had piquancy. It wasn't at all the sort you would expect with such fragile loveliness. There was a hint of fire beneath the surface.

Watching the actress, Toby was startled to hear Tim's voice. He said abruptly. "Listen—I'm fed up with this place. Let's get out of here."

"Why, Tim?"

"It's too crowded and too noisy." He turned, signaling to the waiter to bring the check. "And the service is terrible," he went on. "I never saw anything like it. Come on—let's clear out."

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Some babies are born at home through their parents' choice, and some because there simply isn't time for the mother to get to the hospital.

In most cases, duration of childbirth for a first baby is between sixteen and eighteen hours, and for later babies between eight and ten hours. There is no reason to be panic-stricken or over-excited when the first symptoms appear.

Dr. M. Fishbein

Just as soon as the prospective mother knows that childbirth is to occur in the home, a kettle of water should be set to boil, and a small pair of scissors and two pieces of tape should be dropped into the water. These are necessary to take care of the cord of the baby.

The best available room should be chosen for the mother, and should be kept warm, because birth in a warm room is much safer for both mother and baby. If the baby is born before the doctor or midwife comes, it should be wrapped immediately in a warm, clean towel and kept warm.

* * *

Among the saddest tragedies to occur among human beings is death of a mother from infection during childbirth. This disease is scientifically called puerperal septicemia, or sepsis. It has disturbed the minds of medical men for years.

There is no doubt that proper care of the mother before the baby is born, and observance of strict cleanliness during childbirth, would greatly lower the incidence of such infection.

Even today, however, conditions associated with childbirth are far from satisfactory. Women in childbirth, whose babies are cared for by ignorant or careless midwives, or are born under filthy conditions, are more likely to suffer from such infection than those attended in hospitals devoted particularly to the care of childbirth, or in clean rooms of good homes.

* * *

There is a common superstition that more babies are born at night than in daytime. Actual investigation, however, shows that births vary little from hour to hour in the course of a day.

Of 1,089 babies born in Honolulu, 543 were born during the day, and 546 during the night. Of 1,000 babies born at the Chicago Lying-in Hospital, 493 were born during the day and 507 at night.

The largest number of births during any single hour occurred between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning, but that number was only a few more than were born from 9 to 10 o'clock at night and from 8 to 9 o'clock in the morning.

The Navajo Indian word for motorcycle means "son of an automobile."

INTERVIEW WITH LIONS ON RADIO

A crew of Hollywood NBC announcers and technicians will face 230 lions in "Luncheon for Leo," a special broadcast to be presented tomorrow at 2 p.m., P.S.T., over an NBC Red network, including KOMO, direct from Gay's Lion Farm at El Monte, Cal.

Armed with a portable microphone, Kenneth L. Carpenter, announcer and special events expert, will enter one of the cages for an informal three-way interview between Leo himself, and Charles Gay, who started the lion farm in 1919 with only three of the jungle kings. The impatient roaring of the beasts as they are fed their portion of raw meat will be picked up by the microphones as Carpenter tours the tropical farm, which is located about fifteen miles from Hollywood.

The Gay lions are separted at lunch time, each being fed in a single cage to prevent fighting. Incidentally, the beasts are fed only six days per week, and fast on the seventh.

The Gay lion farm supplies zoos and menageries all over the world, and has rented many of the carnivorous mammals for motion picture work. The late Leo, trade-mark of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, was a graduate of the Gay school of perfoming lions.

Windsor Fords Will Sail For Olympic Games On July 18

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

WITH THE CURTAIN dropped on the English Football League season, a few comments on the recent season are in order. Sunderland, once known as the "Team of all Talents," have regained the championship after a lapse of nearly twenty-five seasons. By winning the title for the sixth time, Sunderland equalled the record previously held by Aston Villa. They were champions in 1892-93-95 and 1902 and 1913.

* * *

The consistent form of Huddersfield Town and Arsenal, who both have carried off the championship in three successive seasons since the Great War, contrasts strongly with that of the Villa, who, after being twice runners-up to Arsenal, are relegated to the second division for the first time in the club's history. Other former giants, Everton, champions five seasons ago, and Sheffield Wednesday, three times third and cup-winners during the last four seasons, are also instances of remarkable decline of winning power.

* * *

Sunderland deserve their latest honor. Without a doubt they were the team of the season. True, they lost a little ground in the closing stages of the league struggle, but they rallied and came out good winners by a margin of eight points over Derby County. The margin of their advantage had been greater than it was at the finish but it was a clear decision. Previous to this season, Sunderland had never amassed more than fifty-four points, and to win their title the champions got fifty-six.

* * *

It was their burst of brilliance early in the season that laid the foundation of their triumph. They are worthy champions and it is a feat of which the club has every reason to be proud, that they were never dethroned from the leadership of the first division after taking it for the second time on November 9.

* * *

A practically unknown player, Joseph Payne, playing his first game in big football as a centre-forward, startled the football world on Easter Monday by scoring ten goals for Luton Town against Bristol Rovers. Originally, Payne was credited with nine of his side's twelve goals, but after the match the referee said that Luton's sixth goal, which had been given to Martin, belonged to Payne, as the ball was already over the line when Martin charged the goalkeeper.

* * *

In this way, Payne surpassed the feat of R. Bell, now of Everton, who only last Boxing Day scored nine goals for Tranmere Rovers in their 14 to 4 win over Oldham Athletic.

Payne's achievement was all the more remarkable since it was only his fourth appearance in the first team. He had played full-back and in four positions in the forward line for the reserves.

* * *

The highest individual scoring achievement in important football stands to the credit of John Petrie, who from the outside-right position, scored thirteen goals for Arbroath in a Scottish cup-tie against Bon Accord on September 5, 1885, when Arbroath won 36 to 0.

The record for the first division of the English League is seven. James Ross performed this feat in the first season of the league, 1888-89, for Preston North End against Stoke City. That record stood unchallenged until December 14 last, when Edward Drake, of Arsenal, equalled it against the Villa.

Victors Over Victoria Dominoes Even Have Hopes of Winning Championship

Goldman Will Be Taken to Berlin

Canadian Press

Windsor, Ont., May 8.—Windsor Fords, Canadian senior men's basketball champions, definitely are going to the Olympic Games this summer, Percy McCallum, president of the club, announced today. And what is more, says Coach Gordie Fuller, the team is going over with every hope of winning.

McCallum and Fuller back from a visit to Toronto, where they discussed arrangements with P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee, said the Fords will sail from this side July 18, and will arrive in Liverpool July 25. The 120 members of the Canadian Olympic contingent are scheduled to scheduled to arrive at Berlin July 27.

While many of the details of the basketball competition will not be cleared up for another two weeks, it is understood the tournament will start August 8 and finish August 14. This is the first basketball tournament ever held in Olympic Games, but twenty-four teams already have applied to enter. It is a demonstration sport and no points are awarded.

FULLER CONFIDENT

"There seems to be an opinion among some people that we (Windsor Fords) would not stand a chance against the United States team," said Gordon Fuller. "We would not want to go over if we did not figure we had a chance."

Fuller has been coach of Windsor-Walkerville Collegiate Alumni basketball teams for ten years. The team this year was sponsored by the Ford Motor Company, and its name was changed to Windsor Fords.

Fuller, rated as one of the smartest basketball coaches in the Dominion, says he feels certain Windsor Fords are in a class with United States teams.

"I feel, naturally, that they have a big country and many more people to pick from, but as far as saying we have not got a chance—that is ridiculous and really uncalled for."

Fords beat Victoria Dominoes, a team that averaged six feet two inches in height, four inches taller to a man than the Windsor boys in three straight games in the Dominion finals. The scores were 47 to 36, 33 to 32 and 40 to 23.

A Windsor-Walkerville Alumni team, made up mainly of players on the present Ford's team about four seasons ago played two games with the University of Michigan, one of the best teams in the United States. The result was a win and a loss each by a small margin of points. The Fords played no games with Michigan teams this year owing to schedule difficulties.

While four of the ten members of the Fords squad have played in the United States and one member was born there, Fuller says all learned their basketball in Windsor.

GOLDMAN AN AMERICAN

Julius Goldman, about whose eligibility to compete in the Olympics for Canada there has been some discussion, was born in South Carolina. At the age of two, however, he was taken by his parents to Edmonton. There he was educated in the public schools, coming to Windsor when he was eleven.

Fuller says he expects Goldman will travel to Berlin with the team, despite his American birth. The matter, however, may not be settled definitely for a couple of weeks yet.

Goldman is the team's best passer, and the pivot man on most of the fast-breaking plays. He starred at Detroit Tech a few years back. He was a forward at Detroit Tech, but jumps centre for Windsor because the team lacks a tall man. After he was graduated, Goldman coached Detroit Tech.

Malcolm "Red" Wiseman, guard, who scored five baskets in the second game against Victoria, which Windsor won 33 to 32, is captain of Detroit Tech's 1936-37 cage team.

Eddie Dawson, guard, was a member of the University of Detroit squad nine years ago. Gordon Aitchison, forward, also played with the University of Detroit five years ago.

Ed Clayards Has Lure Sensation

Finds Trout At Shawnigan Lake Like His New-fangled Contraption Made of Brass Nipples and Hose; May Secure Patent.

Has anyone seen or heard anything of Victoria's latest sensation in fishing lures? It must be a good one if the two baskets of trout Ed Clayards brought into Roger Monteith's tackle store yesterday mean anything. He and a friend caught them at Shawnigan Lake.

It must have some element that draws the fish. Ed has named it the "Fireman's Special." No one has seen it yet, but brother George Clayards dropped the hint today that the mysterious lure is composed of four brass nipples and a piece of hose, and is somewhat similar to a plug.

Roger Monteith is now rounding up a number of stoolies to look into the matter and get the lowdown. It is expected, however, Ed will endeavor to secure the patent for the contraption, for, if it continues to land the trout as it did yesterday, there should be a big demand for them.

REACH FINAL IN GOLF PLAY

Mrs. A. Dowell and Mrs. E. Jackson Playing Today For Uplands Title

Mrs. A. Dowell was scheduled to meet Mrs. E. Jackson, defending champion, in the final for the Uplands women's golf title today. The pair advanced to the last bracket in the club play yesterday, Mrs. Jackson defeating Dorothy Fletcher 6 and 4, while Mrs. Dowell advanced by virtue of the default of Mrs. E. M. Cuppage.

Mrs. Jackson played steady golf to establish an early lead and increase it as the match progressed.

In the first flight Mary Mackenzie-Grieve defeated Mrs. H. B. Combe 5 and 4 to reach the final against Mrs. A. M. Boyd, who overcame Mrs Nickson on the eighteenth. They were scheduled to play today for first flight honors.

In the B class Mrs. H. G. Mackenzie, medalist, continued her excellent play to reach the final against Mrs. H. T. Webb. Mrs. Mackenzie defeated Mrs. H. Firth 2 and 1, while Mrs. Webb eliminated Mrs. B. M. Clifford 2 up.

In the first flight, Mrs. A. Woodcroft beat Mrs. J. Hargreaves, 2 and 1, while Mrs. D. Fletcher won from Mrs. V. M. Gallon, 6 and 5.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

Glenn Cunningham, the sensational mile runner and world record breaker, won what was probably his hardest race by running so slowly that a high school track man could have bettered his time. Cunningham, running a series of races against Gene Venzke and Joe Mangan in New York, had been beaten by one or both of them four times—and in his four losing races he ran his speediest. His slow running was a successful reversal of strategy.

Before his victorious race, Cunningham had run out front setting the pace for his competitors. But in this one he refused to take the lead, and for almost the entire race the three runners jogged along. At the last quarter, however, he started sprinting and was able to nose out Venzke by three yards at the finish.

Strange as it seems, this race was the slowest mile that Cunningham ever ran—but the finish was the fastest last quarter of a mile race ever recorded — 55.8 seconds. The mile took 4.46.8—almost 40 seconds more than Cunningham's own indoor world mark of 4.08.4.

The memorial tower at Crown Point, on Lake Champlain, is the world's only lighthouse memorial. It bears this inscription to the discoverer of Lake Champlain: "To the Memory of Samuel Champlain, Intrepid Navigator, Scholarly Explorer, Christian Pioneer."

Gourmands might well indeed find the land of their dreams to be Java. Here, in the Javanese hotels, is found what is probably the most sumptuous, epicurean meals purveyed in the world today. Served by no less than seventeen waiters parading past the diner, the course of the meal follows a never changing system, starting with waiter number one who brings boiled rice and ending with waiter number seventeen who bears chili paste.

The diner takes a bit of the contents of each dish as the waiters pass and mixes them together in the quantities that suit his palate.

Tomorrow: Knockout Drops.

"Grand to Be Back" Says Red Martin

Star Forward of Dominoes Basketball Team Reaches City After Trip Across Canada; Pays Tribute to Windsor Fords; Players Send Thanks to Victoria Fans

"It's grand to be back, although the trip was a great education and I enjoyed every minute of it," said Albert (Red) Martin, first string forward of the Victoria Dominoes basketball team, who returned to the city yesterday afternoon. Martin left the remainder of the boys in Winnipeg, deciding to pass up the exhibition games in Saskatoon and Calgary.

Speaking on the recent Canadian final between the Dominoes and Windsor Fords, which the latter club won in three straight games, Martin paid glowing tribute to the Ontario club. "On the series they were the better club and will be able representatives of the Dominion at the Olympic Games this summer," Martin said.

MAY TAKE ROGIN

When informed that the Fords had definitely announced their decision to make the Olympic trip Martin stated he thought the only addition to their team would be Willie Rogin, member of this year's Assumption College quintette. Rogin will be remembered as the crack centre who played here against the Dominoes with Assumption in the national final two years ago. "The Fords have fourteen men on their roster and do not need additional players," Martin said.

Martin took the opportunity of extending the thanks of the Dominoes to the Victoria fans for their great interest shown while the boys have been on the trip. The players certainly appreciated the many telegrams sent during the various series and the support given to broadcast the games in Victoria.

Questioned regarding the ability of the Windsor players, many of whom have performed in Victoria, Martin declared the eastern stars were not improved so much individually but had certainly polished up their team play. "The screening and block plays of the Fords were good and practically all their baskets in the three games were scored from right in under our basket. They would block our guards out so effectively that it was impossible for the other boys to switch and take the men going in under the hoop."

REFEREEING O.K.

The refereeing in the series, taking everything into consideration, was all right, Martin said. Alf Perrin, the Vancouver official, who worked along with Dufour and Powers of Detroit, failed to exercise as much authority as he might have, in the opinion of Martin.

"The trip provided our players with some wonderful experience and will prove of great assistance to us next season when we open another campaign for the Canadian championship," Martin said. "We certainly are not through with basketball and next season will use the added knowledge to good advantage."

While in Windsor the Victoria players were royally entertained. As a matter of fact the Dominoes party spent most of their time in Detroit. Any time the boys wanted to visit the motor city automobiles were waiting with drivers to take them through the tunnel. On trips to Detroit the Victorians saw all the sights and in one evening attended two separate shows featuring Isham Jones and Buddy Rogers, famous leaders of dance bands.

Members of the Dominoes were taken through the plants of the Ford Motor Company both at Windsor and Detroit.

While in Windsor the Dominoes were the guests of Father McGee at dinner at Assumption College.

Father McGee brought the collegians out to Victoria last year. The Victoria party dined with around 200 students and when introduced individually received a great hand.

Martin said he expects the main party of Dominoes to arrive back on Sunday afternoon. The team is playing an exhibition game in Calgary tonight.

THE BIG SIX

Evidently content to let his early record keep him on top of the Big Six, Manager Bill Terry of New York Giants is still leading the pack by 99 points. Billy Sullivan, his nearest rival, got one hit in four times up, and none of the others did much better. Ben Chapman, the Yankees' outfielder, was out of the game yesterday with a pulled muscle in his left side, Johnny Stone of the Senators failed to get a hit against the White Sox, and Bill Herman of the Cubs and Buck Jordan of the Bees each got two hits, Herman in six attempts and Jordan in five.

Homers Win For Sox and Yankees

Jimmy Foxx and Bill Dickey Contribute Two Apiece in Victories Over St. Louis and Detroit; New York Giants Take Another Trouncing

By ANDY CLARKE

The St. Louis Browns took the field against the belting barons of Boston yesterday and were defeated 9 to 6 with Jimmy Foxx lacing out two homers for Boston. The New York Yankees, making a grand bid to overhaul the leading Red Sox, kept pace by virtue of a brace of circuit smashes by Bill Dickey which enabled them to defeat the champion Detroit Tigers 6 to 5.

The Cleveland Indians continued their upward march by defeating the Philadelphia Athletics 4 to 3 for their sixth straight victory. In the fourth American League game the Chicago White Sox downed the Washington Senators 11 to 6.

In the National circuit the Pittsburgh Pirates added to the western misfortunes of the New York Giants by beating them 6 to 2; the Chicago Cubs outslugged the Boston Bees 9 to 8; the St. Louis Cardinals nosed out the Phillies 3 to 2, and the Brooklyn Dodgers put two wins together by besting the Cincinnati Reds 7 to 4.

Wes Ferrell number two hurler on the Red Sox squad, was batted in lusty fashion and probably would have been hooked had not Foxx belted those four baggers, each time with a runner on base.

COAST LEAGUE

San Diego southpaws shut out the San Francisco Missions on two successive days and shoved the Reds down into a three-way tie with Portland and the San Francisco Seals for third place in the Pacific Coast League.

Wally Hebert repeated the five-hit performance of Ed Wells as the Padres set the Missions down 4 to 0 yesterday.

Portland oozed up into the third place tie by winning 5 to 3 from Seattle behind the five-hit pitching of "Hobo" Carson who had to be helped through the ninth by Don French. It was the first game the Beavers won this week although their hurlers have limited the tribe to a total of fourteen hits for the three games.

The Seals came into the picture by winning what was billed as a baseball game from Los Angeles 16 to 13. Eleven runs came in the tenth and fortunately the final inning.

Three home runs and a triple were smacked out by Steve Barath, Seal third baseman, in six times up as his contribution to San Francisco's twenty-one hits. He also contributed two errors to the seven in the game.

Oakland relied on Willie Ludolph to break Sacramento's winning streak as the Oaks won 12 to 4. It was Ludolph's seventh win without a defeat.

McLarnin Remains Favorite To Whip Canzoneri Tonight

New York Bout May Draw Gate Around $80,000

Tremendous Interest Over Ten-rounder Between Two Great Little Men

Both Battlers Under Handicaps

By HUGH S. FULLERTON

New York, May 8.—The practically irresistible Tony Canzoneri runs afoul of the usually insurmountable barrier of a ten-pound pull in the weights he must concede to Jimmy McLarnin tonight, and curiosity as to what may happen is expected to draw one of the biggest indoor fight crowds in years into Madison Square Garden

Garden officials, with some $50,000 already in the till, are talking about a near-capacity crowd and a gate of $80,000 for the ten-round fistic naturel. It's been a long time since any battlers below the heavyweight class have stirred up so much talk. Unable to get any reliable dope, the boys have decided to come out and see for themselves.

Those extra ten pounds McLarnin will carry into the ring are the cause of most of the disputes. Jimmy is expected to weigh in at around 145 and Tony at the lightweight limit. The main question is whether the 135-pound champion can spot a dangerous rival that much weight and still put up the same kind of fight he does against opponents of his own size.

OTHER QUESTIONS

There were other questions being discussed too. Have Canzoneri's agile legs, which have carried him through 138 battles in a dozen years, begun to weaken? He'll have to step at a lively clip to keep away from the Vancouver veteran's punishing right.

Has a year's absence from the ring since he lost the welterweight crown to Barney Ross last may cost McLarnin any of his accuracy, or timing, or urge to win? Has Jimmy lost his famed knockout punch through past injuries to his right hand? Even the most ringwise of fans hasn't been able to find the answers.

McLarnin has returned, good as ever, from previous long layoffs. He has looked bad in gymnasium drills, giving his sparring partners a good target, but he never was much of a gym fighter. His announced ring strategy is not to try for a knockout but to make the most of his weight advantage to wear the smaller scrapper down.

Canzoneri, always a busy battler, may have the keener edge of the two, as he already has had five fights since New Year's day, winning four by knockouts. However, he made one bad showing against Johnny Jadick and the odds, which had been pretty well on his side, began to swing the other way.

PREDICT KNOCKOUT

Some say he's too anxious to wade in and scrap and that he is likely to waste chances that might come his way if he were willing to hold McLarnin off and look for opportunities to shoot his deadly punches. Tony's followers, however, openly predict a knockout victory.

Current betting quotations favor McLarnin at about 7 to 5, but indications are it will be a 6 to 5 and take your pick affair before the gong sounds.

If McLarnin wins, he probably will try to regain the welter title from Ross, while Canzoneri is looking forward to lucrative defences of his lightweight diadem against Lou Ambers and Pedro Montanes this summer.

CUP FINAL TOMORROW

Thistles to Oppose Victoria City in Main Soccer Attraction

Those rapidly recovering Saanich Thistles, who failed to show any particular brilliance in league play until they upset Esquimalt in the Jackson Cup series, will stack up against Victoria City, another squad lowly in league standings, tomorrow in the final for the cup. The game is scheduled to start at 2.30 o'clock at the Athletic Park.

The Thistles will be out to retain the Jackson Cup, won by them last year when they scored a neat sweep in local soccer.

Against them Bert Weatherall, manager of the City squad, will send a nicely balanced eleven which should give the Saanich boys a good battle for the coveted silverware.

THISTLES FAVORED

Thistles will enter the fray slight favorites to take the laurels. Their recent play has considerably enhanced their prestige in local soccer circles, and the boys from the northern municipality are figured strong enough to fight off the challenge of the City team which eliminated Victoria West from the cup fray.

The City advanced to the final by beating the Wests 3 to 2 in an overtime match, while the Thistles upset Esquimalt 4 to 2 in one of the major surprises of the current season.

T. M. Robb will handle the whistle for tomorrow's game with Al McKinnon and Dave Swan working on the sidelines.

J. Carmichael, trainer, will have the following boys on deck for Saanich: Chalmers, Easler, Harper, Leggett, Crowe, Speller, Williams, McLean, Campbell, Stofer, Glancy, Gent, English, McGill, Hetherington and Williams

Joe Pringle Is Awarded Trophy

Vancouver, May 8.—George "Joe" Pringle, star of the University of British Columbia's basketball team, was presented with the Bobby Gaul Memorial Award by Chancellor R. E. McKechnie at the annual convocation dinner.

He is the first student of the university to receive this award, given for high quality of sportsmanship, courage, sympathy and modesty.

CRAWFORD-QUIST SHOW GOOD FORM

Toronto, May 8.—Not far from the peak form they hope to reach before facing United States in the North American Zone Davis Cup finals this month, Australia's three-man team finished an impressive exhibition series yesterday amid a growing belief that Vivian McGrath would not see action at Philadelphia.

Jack Crawford, the team's chief hope, defeated Adrian Quist, No. 2 man, 6-5, 6-3, in a singles engagement after the two had teamed to beat McGrath and Clifford Sproule, non-playing manager of the team, at doubles, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

While Sproule himself said nothing about the matter, it was conceded he would select Crawford and Quist for singles duty against the United States and send the same pair for the doubles against either Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn or Gene Mako and Don Budge.

WRESTLERS ARE BILLED

Six Heavyweights to Meet in "Battle Royal" on Card Tomorrow Night

More than half a ton of wrestling material will climb into the ring together and open the weekly mat show at the Tillicum gym tomorrow evening, with a "battle royal." Promoter Fred Richardson yesterday evening billed six well-known grapplers for this week's programme. The card will open at 8.45 o'clock.

Four of the six grapplers are fairly well known to local mat fans, for they have appeared here on a number of previous occasions. They are Rudy Strongberg, Frank Stojack, Tony Catalino and Louis Newman, local exponent.

The other two, George Kitzmiller and Rudy Brenner, will be making their first appearances here.

THE PROGRAMME

These six will be in the ring together, one in each corner and two in the middle, back to back. The first two men pinned or thrown through the ropes will meet in the preliminary. The next two will fight in the semi-windup, and the last two will meet in the main event.

Strongberg has worked here quite often and has gained much popularity, while Stojack will be remembered for his fine match with Strongberg a few weeks ago. Catalino, Italy's donation to the bone-bending game, fought Hans Steinke here some time ago.

Kitzmiller and Brenner, the newcomers, are reputed to be good mixers and can take care of themselves in all kinds of company.

$8,000 FOR ICE GOALIE

Detroit, May 8.—The story of how Conny Smythe went shopping for a goaltender, was disappointed in one and bought another, was told today as the Toronto Maple Leafs manager handed Detroit Olympics $8,000 for Walter Broada.

The young Olympic goalie, playing his first year as a professional, made a hit with Smythe one night when the Torontonian came here to watch Earl Robertson of Windsor Bull Dogs. Robertson let eight pucks past him that night and Smythe's attention wandered to the United States-born Broada.

Smythe called off a $6,500 offer for Robertson and at the National Hockey League annual meeting here yesterday agreed to pay $8,000, a new high for a minor leaguer, to Olympics for Broada.

Olympics immediately announced they would fill Broada's job with Jimmy Franks, a twenty-two-year-old amateur who played in Prince Albert last season and was recommended to Olympics by "Goldie" Smith, Red Wing scout. Franks averaged thirty-seven stops a game in seven Allan Cup playoffs last season.

At the executive session, the N.H.L. heads re-elected Frank Calder to his twentieth term as president and appointed Calder, Smythe and Art Ross of Boston to confer with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association on "conditions that have arisen in the amateur situation."

President Calder announced the following were elected to the board of governors: James Norris and Jack Adams, Detroit; Major Frederic McLaughlin and W. J. Tobin, Chicago Black Hawks; Arthur H. Ross, Boston; Col. J. R. Kilpatrick and Lester Patrick, New York Rangers; William V. Dwyer and Marty Schenker, New York Americans; Thomas Arnold and T. P. Gorman, Montreal Maroons; J. E. Savard and L. Gelinas, Canadiens, and Connie Smythe, Toronto.

SOFTBALL MEETING

The Sunday School Softball League will hold an important meeting this evening at 7.45 o'clock in the Colonist boardroom. Plans for the season's activities will be discussed. All last year's clubs and others interested in entering the league are asked to have delegates present.

LEA M'MARTIN IS PRESIDENT

Active International Chooses Officers; Vancouver Delegates Attend

The Active International, service club for young men, last night opened a branch in Victoria, with Lea McMartin elected to the presidency. The organization made its debut at a dinner meeting in Spencer's dining-room.

Jack Grover, a former officer of the Vancouver branch, was appointed vice-president. Brain Burdon-Murphy was named secretary and Leslie F. Lamb treasurer. The following were elected to the executive: Fred Harman, H. J. O'Neil, R. W. Kirkwood, H. W. V. Moorhouse and Jack Barraclough.

The appointments will be confirmed at the charter night of the club, which will be held shortly. It will be attended by members of the Vancouver, Seattle, Aberdeen, Bellingham and Bremerton branches.

VANCOUVER DELEGATES

The functions of the club were outlined at last night's meeting by Clyde Compton, president, and Fred Patkin, Norman Beaton and H. J. McTaggart of the Vancouver club.

Active International, they said, aimed to foster child welfare work and to build young men.

Leslie Osborne, president of the Victoria Service Clubs' Council, brought congratulations to the members on the founding of the branch and offered the friendship of the other clubs of the city. He believed the new organization would bring credit to itself and to Victoria.

The executive will meet next Tuesday, and the next meeting of the entire club will be on Thursday evening at 6.30 o'clock in Spencer's dining-room. Plans are being made to hold meetings twice a month. The present membership of the Victoria branch is about twenty.

Other members attending last night's meeting: John Fuller, Douglas F. Robertson, Frank Stenton, Dennis Humphries, Neil McKelvie and Dr. R. H. Wiggins.

MARKET NOTES

The produce strike which is gripping Seattle's wholesale row will have little effect on the local market, according to advices from city wholesalers.

However, if the strike continues for any length of time there may be temporary shortages in certain imported commodities. Victoria generally depends on Seattle for short orders of fruits and vegetables.

Over Three Hundred Taking Part in Annual Circus at Willows

Over 300 performers will take part in the annual Y.M.C.A. circus, which will be held at the Horse Show Building at the Willows, on Friday and Saturday, May 15 and 16.

Through the co-operation of the Agricultural Association, the Victoria Riding Academy, the Motorcycle Club, the Rainbow Sea Cadets, the Shrine Band and many other organizations the circus promises to be the biggest and most entertaining of those yet staged by the local Y.M.C.A.

The programme committee heard the accordion band yesterday evening and decided it would play an important part in the programme.

Len Oliver, Ralph Alcock and Harold McLean are guiding the comedy end of the show, and they will be assisted by a team of funny men, including Bill Mair, Stan Lawrence, Art Barber and Roy Berryman. The famous clown, Corbett, of other "Y" circuses, will be on hand with his donkey. He will be assisted by Ralph Alcock, who used to "wow" the fans at the ice arena.

Reserved seats are on sale at the Y.M.C.A. while box seats may be secured from S. J. D. Clack.

TULIP WITH LEAF-PETAL

Two More Freaks Brought To Newsroom of The Times Today

Two more garden freaks were brought to the newsroom of The Times today.

J. K. Nesbitt discovered a tulip in his garden at 1020 Penderfast Street, which had one petal a leaf.

The freak petal evidently was in two minds whether to be a leaf or flower, because it is green on two sides and pink in the centre. The petal is pointed like an ordinary tulip leaf, and is a little longer than the other petals. It also grows from further down the stem.

Only Two Ministers For Cabinet Session

The harsh, throbbing bell which resounds through the ministerial offices at the Legislative Buildings, rang out as usual at 10.30 o'clock this morning summoning cabinet ministers to the regular Friday executive meeting of the B.C. government.

Hon. G. M. Weir stepped outside his office and into the executive chamber which is next door. Hon. George S. Pearson hurried down from his aloof quarters on the third floor. Together they waited in vain for anyone else to appear, so spent a quiet half hour discussing the affairs of the province. Hon. John Hart, acting premier, and three other cabinet ministers, were in Vancouver. Attorney-General Sloan was arguing the Indian trial in Appeal Court and Premier Pattullo was in New York. The net result —official business was postponed.

VANCOUVER MAN IS SENTENCED

Canadian Press

Vancouver, May 8.—Horace Cole today pleaded guilty before Magistrate H. S. Wood in police court to a charge of being in illegal possession of morphine and was sentenced to nine months in jail and fined $200, or an additional month in jail in lieu of payment of the fine.

Cole was arrested on April 24 by a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer who said he was forced to seize him by the throat to prevent him from swallowing nine capsules, each filled with morphine.

Death Appeal Still Continues

Third Full Week of Argument As Henderson Again Takes Floor

The legal battle over the struggle of the three George brothers, Indians, to escape the gallows, this afternoon ran out its third full week before the four sitting justices of the Court of Appeal here.

The Indians at two jury trials were convicted and sentenced to be hanged for the killing of Constable Gisbourne on the Canford Reserve in May, 1934.

Attorney-General Sloan, who is personally in charge of the Crown's case, at 12.05 this afternoon concluded his main argument against interference with the sentence. Mr. Sloan's argument had lasted just one week.

Stuart Henderson, chief defence counsel, who had taken two weeks for his inaugural argument, rose and commenced his reply when Mr. Sloan sat down this afternoon. He began by citing cases on the failure of accused persons to testify and said that in this case the three Indians who did not go into the witness box were convicted and the one Indian who did go into the box was acquitted.

The Attorney-General arose to object to Mr. Henderson rearguing his whole case.

Mr. Henderson said he was bringing up new points.

The Attorney-General said he reserved the right to do the same thing.

"I am prepared to stay here another week," said the Attorney-General.

Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald interjected the suggestion that there was a "saturation point" with respect to the capacity of the justices on the bench.

"There is no use pouring water in a cup that is already full," Mr. Justice Macdonald said.

Mr. Justice Martin declared that counsel must have latitude, but it was hoped they would keep within the rules.

As the Attorney-General concluded his argument, Mr. Justice Martin read from the jury address of Chief Justice Morrison, trial judge, and asked about the part in which the justice had stigmatized it as a "ghastly crime." Mr. Justice Martin asked whether this had not been prejudging the case before the accused were found guilty by the jury who were there to decide upon the case. He asked whether this was inflammatory as argued by Mr. Henderson.

The Attorney-General replied that the chief justice in making such a reference was considering it as a suppositous case and was weighing the evidence. However, he argued, on the basis of quoted decisions what he had said was proper comment, as, according to the authorities, a judge had the right to express himself strongly so long as he left the finding of the facts to the jury.

Canadian Press

Calgary, May 8.—Organization of all miners' unions in Alberta and eastern British Columbia into one association will be discussed at a conference to be held here next Monday with Fred J. White, president of the Alberta Federation of Labor, presiding.

Representatives of 7,000 miners will meet here, including officials from the United Mine Workers of America, the Mine Workers' Union of Canada and independent miners' locals.

An endeavor will be made, it was said today, to have all unions come under the guidance of the United Mine Workers of America.

Free miners' certificates in British Columbia must be renewed by May 31, the department of mines announced today. This covers all certificates representing property held under the Mineral Act and the Placer-Mining Act. The fees run from $5 for individuals to $50 and $100 for incorporated companies. Provisional free miners' certificates are issued without charge and are good for taking up a placer claim and recording it without fee.

HONEST TAX BASIS NEEDED

Mayor Leeming Tells Real Estate Board Capital Values Gone

"If we were to get on an honest basis of taxation, the effect on the province would be electrical," Mayor David Leeming told the Victoria Real Estate Board at its annual meeting in Spencer's dining-room today.

"In my opinion there is nothing more harmful than false taxation which destroys capital values."

The restoration of a sane system of taxation, based on the earning ability of property and not charging social service costs to real estate when those costs did not rightly belong to it, would bring back confidence, restore credit, and give the will to work, said the mayor.

"What value is there to assets under the present system?" asked the mayor. "The answer is that it has gone. . . It was inevitable that it should go," he said.

"The banks are lousy with money, but we have no assets to give as security.

RESERVES GONE

"The inevitable has happened. The city in the last four or five years has used up its reserve of savings to keep the taxes down during the depression. The savings are no longer there.

"We had been promised relief by the provincial government in the 1936 budget, and the answer is an increased burden. The nest egg is gone."

Reversions had mounted by leaps and bounds since 1931, said the mayor. The city now owned 62 per cent of all vacant property. The total assessment on land in Victoria had been $89,000,000 in 1914. This year it had fallen to $19,000,00, lower than in the years before the boom of 1910.

"And we are selling those lands at 25 or 30 per cent of their assessed value," added the mayor.

The city could not keep on borrowing. "The trouble is coming next year. And there is no dodging it. It is a cinch that the bank cannot keep on carrying us on capital loans," said the mayor.

He made reference to the 1936 budget, explaining why the rate had had to be raised to forty-two mills, and the levy on improvements increased from 60 per cent to 75 per cent. Even at that, said the mayor, the City Council was presuming a $100,000 government loan, was setting aside $500,000 of debt, was taking $41,000 out of reserves, and estimating on a 79 per cent collection

REEVE CROUCH

Reeve William Crouch of Saanich said, "We have had to pare and cut to make our estimates fit. If we had not we should be in the same position as Burnaby."

He echoed the opinion of the mayor that real estate could no longer carry social service costs.

Saanich, said the reeve, was a poor man's municipality. It was being driven into the position where the poor were being taxed to keep the poor.

However, he thought conditions generally were improving, and found a hopeful sign for the real estate business in the large extent of new construction going on in the municipality.

Reeve R. R. Taylor of Oak Bay said his municipality was not so rich and wealthy as was sometimes claimed. It had its troubles just as other municipalities had.

Extra government charges since 1930 represented between five and six mills. However, taxation had been kept down to its former level. There was a lot of work to be done in the municipality, but it would have to be held over until more prosperous times if the rate was not to be raised.

RADIO HOLDS MUSIC FUTURE

Mechanical Development Can Do Much, Says Sir Ernest MacMillan

Canada today can use radio to spread musical culture throughout the Dominion or make it an additional noise to a nation which is already too noisy, said Sir Ernest MacMillan, principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music and director of the Toronto Symphony, who this afternoon addressed gatherings of the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs in the Empress Hotel on "The Parting of the Ways in Canadian Music."

The development of radio had many features which might teach greater musical appreciation, but there was always the danger that it might serve to create a jumble of sound out of which will grow failure to recognize any particular type of music, Sir Ernest said. Both tendencies are at work and it will be interesting to see which is going to win.

There are certain phases of musical life which are becoming more and more of public interest, Sir Ernest said. He referred to changes brought about by the mechanical world with the improvement of radio.

Appreciation of music had grown with the advent of the radio which had brought good music to those who never heard it before.

HAVE NEW AUDIENCE

"We might say," he said, "that we have a new audience, an audience which has the courage of its opinions."

With this new audience famous names meant little, he said, and the barrier which formerly existed between the artist and the public was disappearing.

There was, however, certain value in placing the art and certain great composers on pedestals, he said, quoting as proof of this the adage, "familiarity breeds contempt."

"We must keep at all times our reverence of the great arts," he said.

LISTEN PROPERLY

People who kept the radio on all day would never become conscious of sound, he said.

"If you are going to listen to mechanical music, you must listen to it," he said, and not carry on with other things around a house.

"Make use of the radio and differentiate between what you like and what you don't like," he said.

There were, however, many who really did listen to the radio, and listen to what was worth while.

He thought the radio provided new light on discussions which centred in musical circles inasmuch as these circles heard more of outside opinions.

A little more patience in listening to better music was urged by Sir Ernest. "Give music a chance and meet it half way," he said.

"The real music-lover is the man who can give himself up to a great variety of music," he said.

APPRECIATION NEEDED

Referring to better class music, Sir Ernest said the general complaint was that it was too long. This, he explained, was because music could not tell a story as it could be told in so many words and it necessarily became something which excited the emotions, which would not be done should the story be turned into words and become a literary work.

Sir Ernest said he would like to see some development of knowledge among the new audience. People who claimed they loved music but knew nothing about it should study some of the primary principles to acquaint themselves with it.

It was usually the person who had developed a knowledge of music that appreciated it most. This was so because of their knowledge.

Musical education was another point in Canada's parting of the ways in music. He cited the findings of leading educationists in England, which claimed the inclusion of musical education in school curricula to be as important as the languages

MUSIC OVERLOOKED

Sir Ernest pointed out that in historical works historians had overlooked the inclusion of music in their recordings. The history of 100 years ago made no mention of the important part which music played in the life of the time.

Sir Ernest thought children should be taught the study of music of various ages as they studied their history. He noted that teaching of folk songs of foreign nations was a material aid in teaching languages to children.

Incompetent music teaching was an important danger to the public will, he said, urging that minimum standards of knowledge and experience should be required among teachers as they are among doctors and lawyers.

Sir Ernest was pleased to hear music appreciation had been adopted as a subject for entrance to University of British Columbia. The student's adolescent mind needed some source of emotional outlet, he said, and this was provided by music.

SINGING IMPORTANT

He also referred to the importance of singing, which he said had been greatly aided in western Canada by the festival movement.

These problems in musical education were coming to the fore everywhere in Canada, and Sir Ernest hoped they would be tackled from the ground up and on natural lines.

"We must try and develop musical education on a national scale," he said. The musical standard of a country was judged by its creative ability, he said.

"We must realize leading musical organizations should be regarded as a matter of public interest," he said. A symphony he paralleled with a museum which was preserved for the understanding of the people.

GIVE ARTISTS A CHANCE

"We should endeavor to give our young artists a chance to let themselves be heard," he continued. There were many fine young Canadian artists who needed hearings, and the encouraging of them he also regarded as a matter of public interest.

F. J. Sehl moved the vote of thanks and Col. H. T. Goodland introduced the speaker.

SINGERS GIVEN HIGH PRAISE

Vancouver, May 8.—"I have heard in Canada the loveliest unconducted ensemble singing I have ever heard anywhere," said D. T. Yacamini, Scottish-Italian adjudicator officiating at this morning's session of the British Columbia Musical Festival, now in progress at the auditorium here.

The classes in question are being judged by both Mr. Yacamini and Mr. Arthur Cranmer, who are both on their first visit to Canada. The latter has a similar thing to say of another group yesterday, but today's judge was careful to make it clear, his impression was not confined to the singing of Vancouver's young people alone, but to all of those whose talents had been tested in events held by the Federation of Western Musical Festivals, in all the provinces from Manitoba to Vancouver Island, where he has been engaged this year.

Demonstrations of school and massed choral singing, opened the morning sessions, leading place being awarded to Carleton School, B group, 175 marks, Carleton, group A, Vancouver, coming second.

Young violinists under ten years were judged by Harold Samuel, who awarded Patsy Halliday, Vancouver, eighty-one marks, and Patsy Hughes eighty marks.

WAR OF EXTERMINATION

Tokio, May 8.—Japan is busily engaged in trying to tear up, root and branch, a religion that is believed to have 2,000,000 followers. There are about 20,000 in the capital alone.

The work of seizing and wrecking 1,200 buildings and shrines of the religion throughout the empire is under way.

The religion, called Omotokyo, appears to foreign students to be a strange combination of Shintoism, militaristic nationalism, delusions of self-importance, and hypnotism, with borrowings from Christianity, Buddhism, and Christian Science, and a trace of Communism, millennialism and mysticism.

STARTED BY WIDOW

Omotokyo was started in 1892 by an elderly widow, the town rag-picker of Ayabe, a mountain village. One day she startled the village by standing in the centre of the main street and shouting "I am the Golden God of Ushitora, the reincarnation of Kunitokorachi no Mikoto." These are powerful gods of the Taoist and Shintoist faiths respectively.

If it seems strange to Americans that anyone should have paid any attention to this, they need only think a little about Father Divine.

So the people of Ayabe began to take the widow seriously, especially when she began scribbling an endless series of complex writings that nobody could understand.

SECT STARTS TO GROW

Scholars toiled at interpreting them, and out of their labors came volumes of prophecies about a great rain of seventy-five days, about the end of the world (in 1922; it didn't happen) and about approaching Japanese supremacy over the world, including universal adoption of the Japanese language.

The sect began to grow. Many efforts were made to halt it, for educated Japanese generally regarded it as a hodge-podge of mass-delusion.

The founder, the widow Nao Deguchi, was arrested. Thousands of copies of the "Book of Flames," the gospel of the cult, were seized by police, and further distribution was forbidden.

WEIRD RUMORS CIRCULATE

Rumors flew across Japan concerning mysterious doings at the shrines of Omotokyo — tales of wealthy devotees of the cult who disappeared mysteriously and were never seen again, funds provided from unknown sources, a magic spring in the central temple at Ayabe, miraculous cures, strange ceremonials when the massed worshippers felt themselves possessed of devils.

The religion spread like a forest fire, and began attracting many military and naval members, drawn, no doubt, by its emphasis on aggressive Japanese tactics in international affairs and on eventual Japanese world supremcy. Army and navy leaders, many of them retired, who belonged to the cult, helped to resist all attempts of authorities to suppress it.

The government several times arrested numbers of the priests of the cult and held them with or without charges for days. Umeno Deiguchi, sister of Wanisaburo and a "high priestess" of the cult, has also frequently been arrested.

LEADERS AWAIT TRIAL

But despite all this, the new religion continued to advance. Now the Home Office is embarked on its most strenuous effort to exterminate the queer cult.

Wanisaburo Deguchi, the present leader, and seven of his close associates, are awaiting criminal trial. Deguchi is charged with having used the imperial crest, a grave offence in Japan. But more serious is the allegation that he claims to be the reincarnation of certain of the primitive gods of Japan, who preceded the sun-goddess, considered to be the ancestress of the present imperial family. Deguchi lived on a mountain above one of the imperial tombs.

Whether this attempt to suppress a religion of 2,000,000 followers is a success, only time will tell. Skeptical Japanese intellectuals believe the cult will persist in one form or another as Japan's particular manifestation of the spiritual unrest that is seen in almost every country in the world.

Free Port Plan Is Advocated

Montreal Senators Urge Establishment of Areas at Canadian Cities

Ottawa, May 8.—A measure for establishment of "free ports" on free foreign trade zones" in Canada to promote transhipment and reassembling business was championed in the Senate yesterday by Senator J. H. Rainville, Conservative, Montreal.

"A free port at Montreal would be the ideal distributing centre for the whole of the east and the middle west of North America, and practically all the territory east of the Rockies," Senator Rainville declared. New York, he predicted, was going to have a "free port," but the closer proximity of Montreal to Europe would make it difficult for New York to compete if a "free port" were established at Montreal. Ultimately it would be profitable for Canada to have "free ports" also at Saint John, N.B., Quebec, Halifax and Vancouver, he said.

The Montreal senator spoke in support of a bill for "free ports" sponsored by Senator J. P. B. Casgrain, Liberal, Montreal, who will continue the debate next week on motion for second reading. The measure would give authority to the Minister of National Revenue to license a public body, a province or municipality, to organize and conduct wholly at their own expense, "free ports" at approved places.

Advantage of this system was that world importers could store their goods at these "free ports" for transhipment without payment of customs duty, Senator Rainville stated.

The Senate adjourned until Tuesday evening.

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

Bartholdi's famous Statue of Liberty in New York harbor becomes the subject for another foreign stamp issue—this time from France, Uruguay, in 1919, and Peru, in 1934, issued similar stamps, while the statue appears on the current fifteen-cent stamp of the United States.

The French stamp is to have the value of 75 centimes, with a surtax of 50 centimes for benefit of foreign refugees in that country.

The U.S. Post Office Department has broken a long-standing rule, by returning to cover collectors the envelopes in which they sent their China Clipper covers to the postmasters at Guam and Hawaii, and which had to go by the same first flight. These, probably, are even more valuable than the regular first flight covers, since they are "business mail," while the others were sent for philatelic purposes.

Tentative date for the next new U.S. issue—the Rhode Island commemorative—is May 4, the 160th anniversary of the state's "declaration of independence."

The Philatelic Agency at Washington has withdrawn the flat plate Mother's Day stamps from sale. You'd better complete your National Parks set, if you haven't already done so, before the sale of these stamps also is discontinued.

On Mother's Day, She Wants to Appear Smart

At left: A triangular bag of black calf or a square one (together at left) in bright red calf with metal trimming are perfect Mother's Day gifts. Also in this group are : Culture pearls with earrings to match; a frilly jabot of lovely white silk lace; fob watch to wear with sports togs; a gaily printed Ascot, boutonniere of buttercups, yellow glace gloves and a lapel carnation with bottle of carnation toilet water.

By MARIAN YOUNG

ACCESSORIES to dress up her spring suit or to complete her summer wardrobe are sure to make mother happy long after little brother has eaten the last Mother's Day chocolate and the last petal on the gift plant has wilted.

If you give her an extra bag, bit of neckwear, colored gloves or jewelry—all things she needs but seldom buys for herself—she will be reminded of your thoughtfulness and devotion for months after Mother's Day, Sunday, May 10, has passed.

This spring, gloves are so unusual that a trip to any good glove counter should give you real inspiration. If mother has been wearing dark accessories with her spring suit and dresses, send her some tulip yellow suede gloves with a gay little lapel flower to match. Or some green ones, teamed up with a matching suede belt. If she wears a good deal of white during the hot months, red and white polka dotted taffeta gloves and an Ascot are sure to please.

SUGGESTS ABOUT BAGS

As for bags, get something that is either inexpensive and decidedly a novelty or a really good one of sleek calf or lizard. If mother has several expensive, dressy bags, a reversible linen model (white on one side and brighter with confetti dots on the other) will make her summer wardrobe problems simpler.

Three-cornered bags are new. So are white lizards, patents and calfskins with scarlet, vivid green, butter yellow and bright blue taffeta linings. Do not forget to have mother's bag monogrammed.

COSMETICS AND JEWELRY

Neckwear, of course, is more charming than ever before. If mother usually picks neat tailored collars and cuffs, just for a change she probably would love to have one frilly jabot effect in organdy, mousseline, net or lace. While in this department, look at the new fluffy blouses which add a feminine touch to an otherwise mannish costume. One girl I know plans to give her mother a crisp yellow net blouse with ruffled neckline, pale lemon yellow gloves and a yellow pocket handkerchief—all to wear with a navy blue suit.

Costume jewelry and cosmetics are other practical Mother's Day gift suggestions. How about some fine culture pearls with earrings to match? Or a novelty clip that can be worn with several costumes?

Perfume, toilet water, bathroom accessory sets—even lipstick, powder, manicure gadgets and hand lotions—always are acceptable presents for any woman. Mother might like some perfumed soap, harmonizing bath powder and cologne. And she is sure to be pleased with a ragged-edged carnation for her lapel and a bottle of carnation toilet water.

Capital Changes For C.N.R. Urged

As Commons Committee Prepares Report Minister Says Some of "Deadwood" May Be Removed Next Year

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 8.—In a swift session yesterday the Commons committee on railways and shipping cleared decks for preparation of its report. With little discussion the annual reports of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine and the Canadian National Steamships were approved. Unless the Commons makes some further reference to the committee, there will be no more public sittings

CAPITAL "DEADWOOD"

The question of whether the "deadwood" should be removed from the capital structure of the Canadian National Railways occupied attention of the committee.

The matter was raised by A. M. Young, Liberal, Saskatoon. "It seems to me there is a tremendous amount of deadwood in the balance sheet," he said. He wished to know from the railway trustees whether they favored removing this deadwood.

J. E. Labelle, K.C., a member of the C.N.R. board of trustees, replied he thought it would be better for the public to have the deadwood taken out of the balance sheet. On the other hand, he was not sure a correct picture of the railway's position would be given if this was done.

Another member of the board, F K. Morrow, said that in his opinion the capital of the railway was excessive and should be reduced.

BEING INVESTIGATED

Certain items should be eliminated from the railway balance sheet, said Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Railways. The whole master was the subject of investigation at present.

"I hope t a year from now we may be able to adjust this balance sheet," the minister continued. It was a complicated business and certain items could not be dealt with at present.

In the balance sheet was carried an amount of $165,000,000 Grand Trunk stock "which cost the government zero." It should not be in the balance sheet. But a case was now before the courts in which the Grand Trunk shareholders sought to have these shares restored to their value If this case went against the government the matter would take on a different aspect.

Again, there was an amount of $100,000,00 for Canadian Northern stock in the balance sheet. The government had paid $10,000,000 for this. Consequently it should be carried at $10,000,000.

Certain other items could be eliminated and result in a much more attractive balance sheet.

Doctor—"You are slightly morbid, my dear lady. You should look about you and marry again."

Widow—"Oh, doctor, is this a proposal!"

Doctor—"Allow me to remind you, madam, that a doctor prescribes medicine, but he doesn't take it."

HELD FOR TRIAL IN WENDEL CASE

CALLOUS

Farmer's wife (to husband who has fallen down the well): "I canna find the rope, Willie. Where do you keep yer insurance papers?"

BUDGET VOTE IN FEW DAYS

End of Debate to Come Next Week; Hon. H. H. Stevens Speaks

Ottawa, May 8.—With the Commons discussing supply this afternoon, the vote on the budget goes over to next week. The debate yesterday included speeches by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Reconstructionist, J. S. Taylor, C.C.F., Nanaimo, and others

RECOVERY SUGGESTIONS

Mr. Stevens gave the House twelve suggestions of measures which in his opinion would bring about economic recovery. They included a balanced budget, refunding the national debt below 3 per cent, consolidating Dominion, provincial and municipal debts, nationalizing the Bank of Canada with full use of its credit-issuing powers, relieving agriculture from monopolies, especially in the livestock industry; reforestation, housing, and parliamentary-set prices for farmers and wages for industrial workers.

C.N.R. DISCUSSION

In the government's bill to replace the board of trustees of the Canadian National Railways with a board of directors, Mr. Stevens scented a gigantic plot to turn the government railway system over to a private trust at less than its cost.

"Obviously," he said, "the present proposals to deal with the problem of the Canadian National are meaningless unless they are a part of a deliberate plan, hitherto undisclosed, and I think before the session ends there should be a full and complete disclosure to parliament of all the things that lie behind this bill for restoration of a directorate for a board of trustees for the Canadian National."

Mr. Stevens belittled the argument Canada's major problems could be solved by extending foreign trade The government was being blind to domestic problems when it relied on foreign trade, he said. Solution of these domestic problems must originate in Canada.

TAX DODGERS

A blacklist for tax dodgers was urged by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar, Sask., who said millionaires were moving from one province to another, prompted by lighter death duies, and at least one had moved to the Bahama Islands.

TAYLOR'S VIEWS

J. S. Taylor, C.C.F., Nanaimo, said this was purely a banker's budget, conceived by a banker's mind. In his judgment, the capitalist system was dying and it was useless to try and patch it up. He quoted different professors in an effort to show the financial system was crumbling and might topple overnight.

Other speakers were: Miss Agnes MacPhail, U.F.O.-Labor, Grey-Bruce, Ont.; J. C. Landeryou, Social Credit Calgary East, and J. A. Marshall, Social Credit, Camrose, Alta.

Burns-Allen In Crosby Film

Hollywood. — George Burns and Gracie Allen will have a busy spring and summer at a Hollywood studio where three productions have been lined up for their comedy talents. Lewis E. Gensler, producer, is having a comedy part for this team written into the script of the Bing Crosby musical, "Beach of Dreams."

Other pictures in which the noted comedy team will be seen are "The Big Broadcast of 1937" and "Hotel Haywire."

COMEDIES IN MAKING NOW

Comedy Holds Screen Spotlight as Spring Enters Hollywood

In line with that axiom of the motion picture industry, comedy is again in the ascendency in Hollywood. Comedians and laugh writers are more in demand than ever as tragedy and heavy drama takes their seasonal back seat in favor of frothier fare.

At Paramount Studios, six of seven pictures now in production are comedies, and two more are scheduled to start within two weeks.

"POPPY" TOPS LIST

First of the lot is "Poppy," the picture that brings W. C. Fields back to the screen after his eight months' illness. Dealing with an old rogue of a carnival trouper and his daughter, who become involved in a "missing heiress" hoax in a small middle-western town of the 1880's, this film gives the comedian the most important opportunity of his movie career

In the cast of the picture, which is adapted from one of Fields's greatest New York stage hits, are Rochelle Hudson, Richard Cromwell, Lynne Overman, Catharine Doucet and Granville Bates.

Following their success in "Hands Across the Table," Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray are teamed again in "The Princess Comes Across," comedy thriller dealing with the romance of a band leader and a phony princess aboard a trans-Atlantic liner.

MUSICAL IN WORK

In addition, Eleanore Whitney, Robert Cummings, Grace Bradley, Olympe Bradna, William Frawley and Roscoe Karns are working in "Three Cheers for Love," another comedy musical, and Virginia Weidler, Lief Erikson and Henrietta Crossman in "Girl of the Ozarks."

"And Sudden Death," suggested by the magazine treatise on traffic tragedies, is the only non-comedy at the studio, but is generously sprinkled with humor nevertheless. Randolph Scott and Frances Drake are featured.

The Man on the Flying Trapeze

flies through the air with the greatest of ease

... a dangerous and difficult feat; one calling for speed, daring, clear vision and sureness of a very exceptional order. Day after day he brings a new thrill to thousands of eager onlookers—people of all ages, sex and variety.

Possibly our comparison may seem a little far-fetched but where could be found a more appropriate analogy for the daily newspaper? Difficult obstacles must be and are overcome daily.

SPEED? ... Where else could you find another medium so gripping, so intense, so alive, that is published almost hourly? Where else is daring so ably exemplified as here where statements are published, upon which the continued existence of the paper itself depends?

... THE thoughts and ambitions of our people rely greatly upon the clear vision, foresight and keen judgment of men who formulate the policies of newspapers. In no other medium is the same inherent surety—giving to its advertisers and readers alike that spirit of confidence which marks the most powerful and influential advertising medium of modern life—THE DAILY NEWSPAPER.

April Dividends Reach New High

Payments to Shareholders By Canadian Companies Largest Since 1932

Toronto, May 8.—Dividend payments by Canadian corporations to their shareholders in April, as reported to E. A. Pierce & Company, members Toronto Stock Exchange, members New York Stock Exchange, amounted to $15,456,593, the highest for this month since April, 1932, and contrasting with $14,820,189 in April, 1935, and $13,764,975 for the corresponding month two years ago. For the first four months of the current year total dividend distributions are reported at $55,084,274, compared with $46,358,779 for the corresponding period of 1935, and $51,129,723 for similar months of 1934.

The trend towards increased annual rates of dividend was continued in the month under review. British Columbia Power Corporation increased the quarterly rate on the "A" stock from thirty-seven to forty cents per share, and National Breweries Limited on the common stock from forty to fifty cents. Canada Bread Company Limited is now making distributions at the fixed annual rate of $5 on the first preferred shares, after two payments at the rate of $4 per share.

Payments on account of arrears of preference dividends were made during the month by Acme Glove Works Limited, Canadian Wirebound Boxes Limited, Greening Wire Company, Investment Foundation Limited, North Star Oil Company Limited, and Sherwin Williams Company of Canada Limited. Following capital rearrangement by Howard Smith Paper Mills Limited, preference shareholders of this company received a cash disbursement of $2 a share, the first distribution by this company since March, 1931.

Mining companies again contributed largely to the month's total distributions. Bralorne Mines Limited resumed dividends in April with payment of a dividend of 10 cents and bonus of 5 cents per share. Premier Gold Mining Company and Wright Hargreaves Mines rewarded their stockholders with extras as well as regular distributions, and United Gold Equities paid 3 cents per share, against previous payment of 2½ cents a share.

WARNER OLAND AT DOMINION

"Charlie Chan at the Circus" Has Local Premiere This Afternoon

With deadly cobras ready to strike with poisonous fangs, savage gorillas raging at his back and the shrewdest criminal brains plotting his destruction, Warner Oland, as the wily Charlie Chan, cleverly outwits his adversaries and solves the most baffling crime of his career.

Chan's presence at the circus is purely for entertainment, but the murder of the circus chief during the performance soon rouses him to action. Since the dead owner's relations with the performers were none too friendly, all of the troupe becomes open to suspicion, including the giant gorilla, missing from his cage at the time of the crime.

With only a few clues to work on, Chan slowly weaves a web of evidence around the suspected party. However, before the solution of the crime is reached, others fall victim, and Chan himself narrowly escapes death.

Realizing that the murderer will return to the scene of the crime to silence one of the performers who knows too much, Chan uses one of the murderer's own victims as a decoy and cleverly traps the suspected person into revealing his true identity.

ROBERT DONAT TO STAR HERE

Robert Donat, the handsome young actor who rose to world fame in "The Count of Monte Cristo," makes his latest appearance in "The Ghost Goes West," Alexander Korda's gay romantic comedy which comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow. Jean Parker and Eugene Pallette head the supporting cast.

Adapted by Robert E. Sherwood from a story in "Punch" by Eric Keown, "The Ghost Goes West" is the first production to be directed in English by Rene Clair, the famous French director who handled the megaphone on such successes as "Sous Les Toits de Paris," "Le Million" and "A Nous La Liberte."

The story follows the amazing and amusing adventures of a handsome and amiable "spook" who haunts an ancient Scottish castle.

CORPORATION EARNINGS UP

Survey of 282 Reporting Corporations Show Rise of 34.8 Per Cent

By A. A. PATTON
Associated Press Statistician

New York, May 8.—Earnings for the initial quarter this year of the first 282 reporting corporations rose 34.8 per cent over the same period a year ago, a survey by the Associated Press today showed.

Rising incomes predominated, 190 reports revealing improvement over 1935, against ninety-two declines.

The previously laggard heavy industries—whose customers are other industries—scored the largest gains. Earnings of this group suffered most from the impact of the depression and did not begin to climb from the depths until recently. Hence even minor improvement was reflected in sizeable percentage changes.

The consumer goods industries—manufacturing for the retail trade—showed a smaller recovery in earning power but are currently operating much nearer boom-time peaks. The depression touched this group more lightly and recovery was more pronounced in the earlier stages.

The sharpest pick-up was in the heavy machinery, oil and rail equipment fields; advances ranging up to 163.5 per cent.

Popular Players For Local Drama

When writing "The Wind and the Rain" the author did not forget to include a generous element of comedy. This is chiefly sustained in the character of Gilbert Raymond, a student who thinks more of blondes than books and who prefers cocktails to cramming for exams.

The part is being played by Harvey Eke, who won high praise for his work in "Three-Cornered Moon," and who will undoubtedly add to his reputation by his robust interpretation of his new comedy vehicle.

Probably the most difficult part in the whole play is that of Dr. Duhamel, a young French doctor who is living at Mhrs. McFie's boarding-house while taking a post-graduate course at the university. This important role is in the capable hands of C. A. Gibbard, who so successfully played the part of George Maitland in "Tons of Money."

A. McCorkindale as Roger Cole, Harold Gelling as Peter Morgan and Ritchie Gatehouse as John Williams round out an exceptionally talented and well-selected cast. The play is under the direction of Archie McCorkindale, and will be produced at the Memorial Hall on May 14.

GOOD CAST FOR DELIBES'S BALLET

Following the plan so successfully carried out by civic opera associations in other cities, the Victoria Civic Opera Association will conclude its season with the presentation of a ballet. They have chosen Delibes's colorful "Coppelia," which they will present, with Dorothy Wilson as ballet-mistress, at the Royal Victoria Theatre on May 22 and 23.

Excerpts from ballets have been given from time to time by local dancers, but this is the first time an entire ballet-opera has been undertaken here.

The principals will be Phyllis Addison as Coppelia, Doreen Wilson as Swanilda, the village belle; Harry David as Cooplius, the old toymaker. The burgomaster will be Alex McGowan, and Swanilda's companions will be Wynne Shaw, Josephine Wilson, Dolly Bradshaw, Gwen Dalby, Honor Benson and Isabel Benson. Franz, betrothed to Swanilda, will be Ian Gibson.

PLAZA THEATRE

A sparkling comedy drama, filled with rollicking laughter, delightful romances, tinkling music, gigantic spectacles and spiced with thrills, comes today to the Plaza Theatre. This new First National film musical, which is enacted by an all star cast, bears the title of "Broadway Hostess," and is a story of New York night life in its liveliest aspects.

Jaxon Players To Open Here Monday

Besides the stage show at the Empire, a new first run feature-length comedy by the British comedian Will Hay will be shown on the screen entitled "Boys Will Be Boys."

Matinees will be held on Tuesdays and Saturdays and performances will take place every evening.

Improvement After An Early-session Drop At Wall Street

Associated Press

New York, May 8.—The stock market just about held its own today despite a revival of apprehension regarding the European financial situation.

While the spot rate of the French currency was supported around its level of the past several days, ninety-day franc deliveries were offered at huge discounts in London and New York, and speculation on foreign exchange in Paris was virtually prohibited when the officials ordered large premiums fixed on forward transactions in dollars and pounds.

Among the better acting shares were Philip Morris, Commercial Credit, Westinghouse, Schenley, Douglas Aircraft, Paramount and American Telephone.

Soft spots included Monesanto Chemical, J. I. Case, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, U.S. Steel and Bethlehem. Most of the mines were lower while the principal rails, motors and utilities moved a shade in either direction.

Bonds slipped in varying directions. Wheat reflected rainfall in the drought districts by dropping 1 to 3 cents a bushel. Corn was unchanged to ½ lower.

MINE SHARES RULE LOWER

Canadian Press

Toronto, May 8.—The mining market of the Toronto exchange displayed uncertainty in today's trading and closed with losses showing a narrow margin over gains.

Hard Rock was again the heavy trader among the issues above the $1 mark. The early price was up around $2, but nearly all the day's gain was dropped. Anglo-Hungarian added about 40 cents on dividend announcements.

Among big golds Dome and Hollinger were slightly higher and McIntyre and Wright-Hargreaves and Lake Shore moderately lower. In the base metals Noranda displayed weakness and Falconbridge was firmer. The cheap oils were steady and slow.

Sharp Recessions In Wheat Futures On Grain Markets

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, May 8.—Heavy rains southwest sent wheat prices tumbling to new season's low levels on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Values closed ⅞ to ⅛ cents lower, May at 76½, July 77⅛ to 77¼ and October 78½ to 78⅝ cents.

Discouraged holders of wheat disposed of their holdings quickly as reports told of refreshing rains in the United States winter-wheat area.

Delivery months fell to new low prices for the season before the recession was stayed. Little support was available to absorb the selling, with today's export sales estimated at 600,000 bushels.

Losses of more than two cents a bushel were boarded at Chicago. Liverpool closed 1 to 1¼d. lower.

Approximately 3.6 per cent of the increase, the report states, was due to the extra day in February this year.

The total payroll amounted to $14,149,428 or $1,690,378 more than in 1935, and the number of employees increased from 113,704 to 131,057.

For January and February, gross revenues were $44,830,972 against $42,573,098 in 1935 and the operating income was $134,190 compared with $483,576 last year.

Canadian National Railways Canadian lines earned $10,618,326 in February, an increase of $337,895, or 3.3 per cent, over last year's revenues. Operating expenses increased by $845,294 or 8.1 per cent, and the operating income debit was increased from $433,940 to $1,077,179. The New England lines showed larger losses than in 1935 but the other three United States lines reported improved gross and net operating revenues and the system operating income debit was $921,101, as against $449,953 in February, 1935.

For the two months the system operating income debit was $2,119,264 or $378,061 greater than in 1935.

Canadian Pacific Railway gross revenues for February increased from $8,666,935 to $9,267,698, or by $600,762. Operating expenses increased by $618,201, reducing net operating revenues, but the operating income increased from $850,144 to $867,397. Freight traffic was heavier by 13.7 per cent and passenger traffic increased by 17 per cent.

For January-February, gross revenues increased from $16,883,550 in 1935 to $18,539,049 and the operating income increased from $1,054,458 to $1,479,969.

RADIO NEWS PLANS STATED

Canadian Press Wishes to Do Best Work For People, Commons Committee Told

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 8.—The Canadian Press did not ask the Transradio or any other news service be kept off the air, was not seeking a monopoly nor a government subsidy, but was seeking only an equal opportunity to broadcast Canadian news to the Canadian people, General Manager J. F. B. Livesay told the Commons committee on broadcasting today.

Replying to evidence submitted before the committee yesterday by Herbert Moore, president of the Transradio Press Service, New York City, Mr. Livesay declared the Canadian Press asked only for an opportunity to do a good Canadian job of supplying Canadian news to Canadian radio stations.

NOT IMPRESSED

"I don't think anybody was at all impressed by this gentleman (Mr. Moore) yesterday," observed Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Railways and Marine.

"But I think," Mr. Livesay replied, "it is my duty to answer him briefly."

Mr. Livesay gave an outline of the operating system and policies of the Canadian Press and was questioned by committee members at considerable length on details of the organization.

On April 7 a delegation of officers and members of the Canadian Press was heard by the committee with a request that facilities be accorded for more frequent emissions over the national network of the Canadian Radio Commission, of news broadcasts such as that broadcast every night at 9.45 C.S.T. Three additional bulletins daily were suggested.

At that time reference was made to the use by several Canadian stations of news broadcasts furnished by services from outside sources, including the Transradio Service of New York City. It was suggested some of these news services were often misleading and erroneous.

Yesterday the Transradio head defended his organization from what he said were allegations of propaganda in its news, and in addition charged the Canadian Press was endeavoring to obtain a monopoly of news broadcasting at the expense of Transradio.

PATTERN FOR EMPIRE

The Canadian Press, Mr. Livesay said, was a pattern to the British empire in the way of news gathering and news distribution. It was co-operative, mutual, with no share capital. There were memberships and each member, large or small, had an equal vote. That system had worked for years and would continue to work, he was confident.

"We are, therefore, a little sensitive about some things Mr. Moore said about us," Mr. Livesay remarked. "We have to be strictly impartial, unbiased, and sometimes, I am afraid, a little dull."

The Canadian Press was proud of the fact its cable service was based on that of the Associated Press, "which like us is co-operative and mutual." A cable staff of trained Canadian press men was maintained in New York, where the cables of the Associated Press, Reuters and Havas, along with cables from Canadian Press correspondents in Europe, were co-ordinated.

CAREFULLY HANDLED

When Mr. Moore said yesterday the Associated Press came into Canada direct to Canadian publishers he was wrong, Mr. Livesay declared. It was all edited and selected by Canadian press men. The Associated Press was unlikely to put an American slant on news, but if it did the Canadian Press would do its best to remove it.

NO TIME FOR POLITICS

To Mr. Moore's suggestion the Canadian Press was carrying on a "subtle and insidious" campaign against Transradio, Mr. Livesay declared: "We have no time for high politics. All we are concerned with is to get on the air and stay on."

The Canadian Press would never submit to capitalistic control or subsidies from the government, Mr. Livesay said. It had enjoyed a subsidy from the government prior to 1924, but when it was taken away it was unanimously agreed no further subsidy would ever be accepted again.

"All the Canadian Press wants," Mr. Livesay said in conclusion, "is to do a good Canadian job on Canadian air."

Exchange Rates Up in France

Speculation Made Virtually Prohibitive By Market Officials' Ruling

Associated Press

Paris, May 8.—Market officials today made speculation in foreign exchange in Paris virtually prohibitive by fixing premiums of 6.75 francs on British pound operations and 1.25 francs for three months on dollar operations.

Marcel Regnier, Minister of Finance, conferred with President Leubrun on the present finanical crisis, and it was rumored in the lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies M. Regnier planned to resign because of the difficulty in preventing panic.

Speculators, said financial experts, apparently have been expecting devaluation of the franc since they already have been paying "exorbitant" premiums.

Premier Sarraut conferred with President Lebrun before M. Regnier went to the Elysee Palace, leading to rumors the entire cabinet might soon resign. Official sources, however, said these rumors were unfounded.

Among the unconfirmed rumors circulating on the Bourse was one which said exchange officials had asked brokers to refuse to handle foreign exchange orders unless certain they were for commercial purposes.

Another rumor had it the government intended asking French banks to refuse to sell gold to clients who were hoarding.

Graduates Are Given Degrees

Vancouver, May 8.—Yesterday was a bright spot in the lives of 300 University of British Columbia students. It was graduation day, and for many their last appearance in college life.

Some will remain for postgraduate work. Others will travel to the United States and Europe for similar study, but for the majority it meant the close of university life.

One by one as their names were read aloud by the deans of their respective faculties the solemn-faced graduates walked slowly across the raised platform at the north end of the campus gymnasium. They knelt briefly on the cushion beside the chair where Chancellor McKenzie sat, rose after he had tapped each lightly on the head and entoned "I admit you," and passed on a few steps to receive the blue, red or maise-lined hood, which graduates of the various faculties wear over their black gowns.

A feature of the ceremony was presentation of the Governor-General's Gold Medal for proficiency to Morris Bloom of Vancouver, leading student in the graduating class this year. The presentation was made by Lieutenant-Governor Eric W. Hamber.

Tarzan And the Fire Gods

Tommy's confidence in his machine gun did not allow him to be disturbed by Tarzan's warning against the brigands. Besides, his chief interest now lay in finding Jerry Jones. "Say," he addressed Tarzan, "you know this neck of the woods; maybe you can find my side-kick."

The ape-man immediately ascertained the details of Jones's disappearance. "You go back to your camp," he told Tommy; "and I'll find him." Tarzan embarked on the search as a pleasant interlude; for he did not know then the mysteries and perils that awaited him. . . .

. . . If Tarzan's sight could have pierced the mountains . . . he would have been astonished to descry an oddly contoured human form hurtling from the rocky shores of a lake. That human figure was a woman, enveloped in a strong, weighted net, plunging to her doom!

As the waters closed over Lady Beth, the frantic Arbela rushed through the massed Baalites to throw herself into the lake after her friend. Niarchus stopped her—not from any humanitarian motive, but because he wished to save her for another, and more horrible, fate!

The Gumps

Mother Complex Bad for Daughters | Dorothy Dix | Explodes An Old Theory in Families

THEORETICALLY there is no other human relationship so close as that between mother and daughter. We are committed to the belief that because a woman bears a girl child she intuitively understands her and that they are just naturally devoted to each other.

Of course, this often happens. There are plenty of mothers who are daughter worshippers, and plenty of daughters who have such a mother complex that they are totally unfitted to be wives or to live any independent lives of their own. They are never happy if parted from their mothers.

But it is not true that all mothers and all daughters are peculiarly attached to each other and find each other congenial. Many mothers and daughters are temperamentally antagonistic to each other and rub each other's fur the wrong way, so until the time they leave home there is a continual conflict between them. Many other mothers and daughters are jealous of each other. Others fight together for supremacy in the home, or engage in a death struggle for a little personal liberty. Each finds the other unendurable and longs for the day to come when they can break the fetters that bind them together.

If you doubt this, consider how anxious girls are to get away from home. Thousands of them marry for no other reason than to get away from Mother and the daily spats with her about everything they do and leave undone. Thousands of other girls who have luxurious home, delicious food to eat and servants to wait upon them look with envy upon the working girls who live in shabby flats and cook their own scanty meals when they come home at night from their offices, but who are away from Mother.

Consider also how eager mothers are to get their daughters married. At a son's wedding Mother is a fountain of tears, but at daughter's wedding she looks like the cat that has just swallowed the canary. Likewise, consider how much fonder of each other mothers and daughters invariably are after they are parted, either by the girls' marriages or by getting jobs in a distant city. Indeed, it is not too much to say that maternal and filial affection increases in direct ratio to the distance between mother and daughter.

All of which is, of course, perfectly logical and need surprise none of us if we would only look at life as it is instead of trying to prettify it into what we think it should be. We think, for instance, that all mothers and daughters should be rubber-stamps of each other, hence able to get along with each other harmoniously because they have the same tastes and thoughts and desires. But such is not the case once in a hundred times.

Old hens hatch out swans and swans discover ugly ducklings in their nests. Brilliant mothers have Dumb Dora daughters. Pious mothers have daughters who develop into night-club hostesses and fan dancers. Domestic mothers, whose idea of a perfect day is making plum jelly or turning out the closets, have daughters who want to be aviatrixes or movie actresses, or what have you. And the two are always at odds just because they have nothing in common. They do not even speak the same language.

The only daughter a mother ever really understands and gets along with is the one who is a replica of herself. If Mother was a society belle in her day, she sympathizes with the daughter who also adores parties and has an attraction for men. But she never comprehends why the daughter who is a student prefers to pore over books instead of dancing holes in her stockings, and she regards the daughter who insists on going into business instead of making her debut as an affliction sent on her by the Lord.

Then, too, no two grown women can live in peace together in a house, no matter if they are mother and daughter, unless one of them has a doormat disposition, because both of them want to run the house and run it in different ways, and there can be just as bitter a fight over where to hang a picture or how to fry potatoes as there can be over any world problem.

And, finally, there is the unending battle over the question of personal liberty that goes on between mother and daughter. As long as a girl is unmarried her mother consider she has a perfect right to boss her, no matter if she is seventy years old. She must dress according to Mother's taste.

Let Mother pick out her friends. Let Mother read her letters. Let Mother listen in on every telephone conversation. And when the daughter fights for her freedom, Mother calls her ungrateful and there are tears and recriminations on both sides.

The moral of all of which is that it is time for us to scrap the old superstition that mothers and daughters are always congenial and enjoy being together, and to recognize the fact that they are often poison to each other and that when this is the case the wise thing is for them to part and get so far away from each other that they will get a perspective on each other's virtues and be able to love and admire each other.

Uncle Wiggily's Ball Game

By HOWARD R. GARIS

One pleasant afternoon Uncle Wiggily was hopping home with a loaf of carrot bread under one arm and a box of cabbage pudding under the other, when, from a field near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grandpa Whackum, the beavers, he heard loud shouts.

"Oh, ho," he muttered, twinkling his pink nose. "Something is happening. I must see what it is."

He hopped over toward the field and there he saw a group of animal children playing ball. There were Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boys; Jimmie Wibblewobble, the duck; Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the dog brothers; Bully and Bawly No-tail, the frogs, and Jollie Longtail, the mouse boy.

"Uncle Wiggily—yo ho! Uncle Wiggily!" Jackie Bow Wow barked. "Come and play ball with us! You can be on our side! We need you to help us win, because Jimmie Wibblewobble is such a slow runner—he just waddles along, and they put him out every time!"

"I do not!" Jimmie exclaimed indignantly. "I got as many runs as you did, Jackie! But I do wish Mr. Longears would play. Will you, Uncle?"

AGREES TO PLAY

"Well, now," said the rabbit gentleman, much pleased. "I haven't thrown a ball in years. But I used to be good in my younger days. Yes, I will play with you, for a while. I just feel like a ball game!"

He placed his store packages carefully on the ground and you should have heard all the children yell with glee when the rabbit took the bat and stepped up to the home plate.

"Throw me a good one, Johnnie!" he said to the squirrel boy, who was pitching "I'm going to make a home run!"

"Whee!" yelled Bully No-tail. "Strike him out, Johnnie!"

"He won't do that!" Mr. Longears declared, and he grasped the bat tighter.

The next ball came slower. Uncle Wiggily took a big breath, and wang-o! The ball sailed up in the air, higher and higher.

"Run, run for first base!" Jollie Longtail shouted. "Hurray for Uncle Wiggily!"

Mr. Longears started to run, but he stopped suddenly, for the ball sailed toward the house of Grandpa Whackum, near the brook—and went right through a window!

"Oh, my goodness," gasped Uncle Wiggily. "Now I've done it! Grandpa Whackum will be angry—and here he comes out!"

"NEVER RUN FROM TROUBLE"

Some of the animal children wanted Uncle Wiggily to run away, but he told them: "Never run away from trouble—always stand by whatever you do." So he walked right up to the beaver gentleman, who cried: "Who put that ball through my window?"

"I did," Wiggy replied sadly. "I'm very sorry, and I'll pay for it, Grandpa."

Then he saw that the beaver was smiling. "Pay for it!" the animal carpenter exclaimed. "Well, I guess you won't, Uncle Wiggily! You did me a big favor! Noodle, my beaver boy, had a loose tooth, and he was afraid to have it pulled. So I tied a string to it and fastened the other end of the string to a door. But he was afraid to let anyone close the door! And then the ball came through the window and hit the door, and slammed it shut, and Noodle didn't even know his tooth was out! So I want everybody to come in and celebrate! Everybody is to have cookies and milk—Wiggy, you can have two glasses, if you wish!"

And that's why Uncle Wiggily didn't have to pay for the window he broke. You see, if he had run away, he wouldn't have gotten the cookies and milk, either—so, as he said, it's always best to stand by what you've done.

The animal children had a grand time celebrating Noodle's tooth-pulling—with many cheers for the rabbit ball player. And if the catcher's glove doesn't roll around the field and get dust on the home plate, making it cough, I'll tell you tomorrow night about Uncle Wiggily's cave.

HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, MAY 9, 1936

This is not an important day in planetary direction, according to astrology. Conflicting aspects promise delays and thwartings of plans. Business of importance should be postponed.

While there is a benefic aspect governing business in the United States, labor is likely to contest certain policies affecting manufacturing and shipping.

Lawyers and judges continue under a direction of the stars that presages many honors for leaders in the legal profession. At least two new appointments to very high places are probable before the end of the year.

Mars on the cusp of the seventh house in the horoscopes of Poland, Italy, Austria, Hungary and northern Africa is read as forecasting world war centred around the Mediterranean and the Balkan states.

Women will find their greatest pleasure under this configuration in home tasks and responsibility. Modest entertainments are well directed by the stars.

This is an auspicious day for recreation among students and brain-workers. The universities this month are to furnish varied news for the press, some of which may be disappointing to proud parents.

The moon enters Capricorn this evening, a sign stimulating ambition, self-reliance and perseverance. Those who drive automobiles tonight should be especially careful.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of unusual opportunities and pleasant experiences. Extravagance should be avoided, for there will be temptations to spend lavishly.

Children born on this day probably will be fond of sports and interested in scientific studies. Subjects of this sign usually have courage and many are deeply interested in humanity.

John Brougham, actor and playwright, was born on this day, 1814. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Sir James M. Barrie, author, 1860, and John Brown, abolitionist, 1800.

Rex Carey, heavy-hitting British Columbia middleweight champion, and Pete Rowland, Fulford Harbor, will meet in the headliner.

Clarence Leask and Bob Akerman will do battle and Jack Patterson will swap punches with Sonny Thomas. Jerry Wilson and Young Duval are matched in a three-round battle, and Bill Mossey is scheduled to fight Bill McFadden.

No More Piles

Get Quick, Pleasant Relief

Probably not one person in ten knows the cause of piles is inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about piles and is the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give more than temporary relief — they do not remove the cause.

Your piles can not be relieved until you have corrected the condition which causes them. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used. HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who early in his professional life made many tests to relieve piles by correcting the cause. His medicine succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, eases the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

So if you have failed to get the relief you want from your sore, painful piles, and would like to give HEM-ROID a trial, you have our promise to return your money, if just one bottle of this prescription does not give pleasing results. MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores or any druggist can supply you with the genuine HEM-ROID.

Recall Two Famous Ships of Atlantic

Two Elderly Halifax Women Interested in Ss. Queen Mary's Voyage; One Visited Old Britannia and the Other Crossed on the Cambria

Halifax, May 8.—Two elderly Halifax women—their ages total 197 years—look forward with interest to the maiden voyage of the superliner Queen Mary.

Both of them are something in the nature of ancient mariners. Mrs. Fanny Lenoir is the only person living who set foot on the little steamer Britannia when it sailed into Halifax Harbor on its first voyage in 1840.

The other elderly seafarer, Mrs. Loring W. Bailey, crossed the Atlantic Ocean from Liverpool to Halifax in the Cambria, a side-wheeler with sails eighty-seven years ago. Both were six years old when they stood on the decks of their vessels.

Passage of years has not dimmed the memories of her first ocean crossing for Mrs. Bailey. Her father came to Canada to become chief superintendent of education in New Brunswick she recalled.

On the little Cambria, she said, everyone was "so sociable" and the days passed quickly. Mother was very ill and kept to her hammock on board. I was a trifle of a nuisance to the sailors and father, I'm afraid." Mrs Bailey confided. "The little boat was comfortable, but I think the Queen Mary might be too large for someone like me," she said.

Cheery and still active in spite of her 103 years, Mrs. Lenoir remembered the arrival of the little Britannia vividly. She folded her arms and recalled the excitement of old Halifax in 1840.

"Word got around the Britannia was coming up the harbor," she related. "I was only a child, but my mother gave my sister Lucy and me permission to go down to meet it. We lived not far from the wharf."

She told how a "gentleman in a tall silk hat," came down from the boat and took her sister and herself aboard. "My it was exciting," the old lady exclaimed.

Mrs. Lenoir has seen the ocean steamers change from wood to steel and expressed keen interest in the new liner Queen Mary. "It would be wonderful to see it," she said.

HAD ROUGH VOYAGE

Souris, P.E.I., May 8.—Battered during a crossing from Amsterdam which took almost a month, the Ss. Thurhaug came into port yesterday showing visible signs of the heavy going.

Part of the ship's rail and a lifeboat were lost in rough weather. The vessel started from Amsterdam April 11 and was nearer Prince Edward Island April 18 than she was a week later, so fierce were the gales she ran into, according to the skipper.

Equator Flight Mollisons' Plan

Couple May Soon Pilot Plane Around the Earth

Canadian Press

London, May 8.—Captain James A. Mollison says he and his wife have completed plans for a flight around the world this summer, following the Equator. It would be the first flight of its kind.

"We would not attempt it if we did not think we could do it," Mollison said. "It should take something up to but not exceeding three weeks.

RETURN FLIGHT

Capetown, May 8.—Mrs. Amy Mollison, who regained the London-to-the-Cape air record yesterday, by completing a flight from England in three days, six hours and twenty-nine minutes, intends to bid for the northward record on her return, flying by the east coast route. Capt. Mollison in London stated yesterday evening that he and his wife were going to make the first round-the-world flight following the Equator, but Mrs. Mollison, questioned regarding her future plans, said: "I am really too tired to make any decision."

Ocean Shipping Co. Ltd. today reported Ss. Anglo-Peruvian, now under charter to the company, will load here June 5 for Shanghai; Ss. Ousebridge will load in June for Tsingtao; Ms. Kirriemoor in June for Shanghai; Ss. Hartington on May 25 at Prince Rupert and later at Vancouver for China ports; Ss. Stonegate on May 14 for Shanghai, and another ship, not yet named, will arrive late in May or early June to load for Dairen and Taku Bar.

Ss. Neptunian today was loading lumber at the Packers' Steamship Company's new dock, formerly the Kingsley Dock. A coast packer, the Koskeemo, was also at the dock loading machinery and supplies for fish plants up coast, and Ss. Prince George was discharging paper from Ocean Falls.

Information is being secured from other Canadian ports and American Pacific Coast cities.

VESSEL SAILS

New York, May 8.—Black Diamond Line officials said yesterday they had recruited a full crew for the freighter Black Gull after thirty-seven striking seamen walked off the ship earlier in the day.

Another strike on the Black Diamond freighter Black Condor delayed its sailing, scheduled for Wednesday, until yesterday morning. A company official said there was more cargo expected for the Black Gull and that it would probably sail today.

FIRE ON SHIP

Martinez, Cal., May 8.—An engine-room gas fume explosion followed by fire burned three men and destroyed the upper structure of the lumber schooner Helen P. Drew at dock here yesterday.

The Beadle Steamship Company, owner of the small wooden vessel, said the second mate was burned severely about the face and chest and two other engine-room workers suffered burns, but names of those injured were not revealed.

Tokio Giants In Second Victory

Four Ships Collide In English Channel

One Ship Goes Down and Crew Taken Aboard By Ss. New York; Italian Ship and German Liner Columbus Also in Mishap

London, May 8.—Three damaged ships proceeded to port today, one was sunk and its crew of twenty-six rescued after two collisions yesterday evening in fog that enveloped the English Channel.

The 3,551-ton Netherlands cargo steamer Alphard went down near Ostend, Belgium, just north of the channel after colliding with the 21,000-ton Hamburg-American liner New York.

The liner, bound from New York to Hamburg, suffered damage to its bow in the collision but proceeded to Cuxhaven, Port of Hamburg, to land the rescued seamen there.

Less than an hour after the Ostend collision, the 5,428-ton Italian cargo ship Antonietta Lauro and the 32,565-ton steamer Columbus of the North German Lloyd Line crashed in the Straits of Dover, between England and France.

English Railway Men Coming Here

Two noted railway executives of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company will visit Victoria during the next few days, and will make a tour of inspection over the lines of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway.

They are E. J. H. Lemon, vice president, and W. B. Woods, vice-president in charge of finance. It was the London, Midland and Scottish that sent its crack flyer, "The Royal Scot," on a tour of Canada and the United States a few years ago, following its exhibition at the World's Fair in Chicago.

The two English railway men arrived in Vancouver this morning accompanied by C. A. Cotterell, assistant general manager of Canadian Pacific western lines, who met them yesterday at Field.

Apostoli Favored To Win Over Risko

San Francisco, May 8.—Middleweight champion Eddie "Babe" Risko stakes prestige, but not his title in a ten-round bout here tonight with a home town favorite, Fred Apostoli.

The two will weigh in over the 160-pound limit. It will be Risko's third non-title bout on the Pacific Coast and Apostoli's followers are so confident he can take the measure of the title holder they have installed their choice a favorite on odds ranging from 10 to 8 to 2 to 1.

West Will See Great Musical Development

While in Vancouver on Wednesday, Sir Ernest was honored at the University of British Columbia when the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on him.

ON NATIONAL SCALE

"If we are to make any progress in music in Canada," he said, "we must think on a national scale as far as possible." "Look what the Dominion Drama Festival has done for the drama."

In the opinion of the composer the day has not arrived for a distinctive music in Canada.

"You see music is always the last of the arts to reach maturity," he said. "We already have a distinctive Canadian literature, and a distinctive Canadian painting, but as yet there is no national characteristic in our music. It will come, undoubtedly, and it will probably be brought into being by one or two individuals."

There should be greater appreciation of native musical talent, he said, in stressing that much musical talent was to be found in Canada.

INFERIORITY COMPLEX

The composer thinks Canada is afflicted with a slight inferiority complex in matters musical.

Canadians were inclined to wait until outside opinion had proclaimed what a Canadian could do before he was acclaimed in this country.

"There is still some distrust of what Canadians can accomplish musically until they go abroad. Then, when someone else tells us what they can do, our musicians do not return," he said.

This was natural in some respects, he observed, because a great musician did not belong to any one country, but to the world.

In making this comment, Sir Ernest did not mean that Canadians should not go abroad to study. Going to Europe or to the United States broadened a musician and gave him more opportunity for practice on the stage.

Canadians, as far as learning music was concerned, could learn as much at home as they could elsewhere, but the Canadian public did not give musicians the opportunity which was rightfully theirs. They had to leave the country to secure routine practice. A certain platform flair had to be cultivated, and there was no opportunity to reach that objective in this country.

On the subject of the suggested national orchestra, Sir Ernest said that such an idea would be excellent if it could be financed in such a way that it could be kept out of the realm of politics.

"Archeologist finds skeletons of couple kissing each other." Maybe the lad could not pick up the reins quickly enough to avoid the oncoming chariot.

Neck Pot Roast

Buy about four inches of lamb neck. Brown 1 finely-cut onion, 1 cup tomatoes and 2 tablespoons bacon fat together. Add the piece of lamb, seared well on both sides. Cook in an iron pan or roasting pan until the meat is tender. Will take about fifteen minutes to the pound of meat.

SUBSIDIES REVIEWED

Today's evidence was put in principally by E. P. Flintoft, general counsel for the C.P.R., who reviewed the history of subventions to steamship companies, with particular bearing on monies paid the C.P.R., on the trans-Pacific services. Since 1913 it had not been the company's policy to employ white deck hands or white men in the victualling departments. The officers and engineers on these vessels, however, were white men.

He emphazied white and Chinese crews did not mix and it would be a blow against harmony and discipline to attempt to mingle them.

JAPANESE HEARD

As it started its sitting the committee, with C. Ross McIntosh, liberal, Battlefords, in the chair, acceded to a request from the Japanese minister in Ottawa that spokesmen for Japanese seamen who were Canadian citizens be heard.

Thomas Reid informed the committee Japanese seamen were not involved in the matter since they were not engaged in the trans-Pacific work on the Canadian subsidized ships. However, if they were called, urged Dr. J. P. Howden, Liberal, St. Boniface, Man., representations should also be heard from Chinese seamen. It was agreed to advise the Chinese consul-general in Ottawa of this decision so the Chinese might have an opportunity to state their case.

ASSISTANCE TO COMPANIES

Mr. Flintoft said seven services were operated out of Pacific Coast ports, of which five were coastwise and two trans-oceanic.

Steamship subventions were given to ensure to Canadian exporters dependable services with regular sailings and to assist shipping companies operating services necessary in the public interest to pay their operating expenses and get some return on capital invested.

CARRIAGE OF MAILS

"In most cases the subvention agreements provide for the free carriage of Canadian mails," said Mr. Flintoft. "The Trade and Commerce Department insists on and does obtain from the companies, reports of yearly revenues and expenditures." A total of $749,000 was paid annually on the Canada-China-Japan and Manila service.

The United States subsidized the Oriental route ships to the extent of $5,863,533 a year over a ten-year period, he said. Japan was also generous in the matter of subventions.

"Canada, so far, has failed adequately to appreciate the situation with respect to its ocean shipping services," said Mr. Flintoft. "The subsidies granted have been little more than sufficient to cover what might be termed a fair charge for the transportation of mails."

The C.P.R. counsel said the 265 officers and engineers of the trans-Pacific ships were white men and more than 200 were householders in the Vancouver district.

CHINESE WILLING WORKERS

The Chinese were not worked excessively, but "were always willing to work as exigencies required, nor did they demand stated times for work," Mr. Flintoft said. "If Canadian crews were installed and they demanded, as was the case with the crews on United States and Australian ships, fixed hours for work and meals and other restrictions, the service would suffer."

SERVANT PROBLEM

It would be impractical to have whites act as servants for Oriental passengers, while Chinese were ideal servants. About 45.6 per cent of the Chinese employed on the ships held Canadian lifeboat certificates, he said.

Mr. Flintoft emphasized Chinese labor had been employed so long on the company's ships that any change in practice would result in resentment on the part of the Chinese people, to whom the company was indebted for a great volume of its freight and passenger traffic. The natural result would be the diversion of a large proportion of this business to competing lines.

COAST SERVICES

On the coastal subsidized services, to replace the Chinese by whites would cost $120,000 more per annum in wages.

The C.P.R. employed 56,023 person, practically all of them Canadians, who received compensation of nearly $75,000,000, he said. In addition the company's purchases in Canada averaged $53,000,000 a year. "In view of this contribution to Canadian labor, is it fair," asked Mr. Flintoft, "that because the company in its judgment sees fit to employ 1,800 Chinese, it should be made the subject of criticism?"
